8	DAVID SANCHEZ: Good morning. This meeting
9	of the Nevada Advisory Committee to the United States
10	Commission on Civil Rights will now come to order.
11	My name is David Sanchez. I am the
12	chairperson of the Nevada Advisory Committee to the
13	United States Commission on Civil Rights.
14	A couple of administrative matters before we
15	get started. I would ask that all in attendance please
16	turn their cell phones off or you put them onto the
17	vibrate mode so that we are not interrupted.
18	The Commission on Civil Rights is an
19	independent agency of the United States Government
20	established by Congress in 1957 and directed to:
21	One, investigate complaints alleging that
22	citizens are being deprived of their right to vote by
23	reason of their race, color, religion, sex, age,
24	handicap, or national origin, or by reason of
25	fraudulent practices.

Two, study and collect information regarding legal developments constituting discrimination or denial of equal protection of the laws under the constitution because of race, color, religion, sex, age, handicap, or national origin, or in the administration of justice.

Three, appraise federal laws and policies with respect to discrimination or denial of equal protection of the laws.

Four, serve as a national clearinghouse for information about discrimination.

And, five, submit reports, findings, and recommendations to the President and Congress.

Advisory committees, such as ours, were established in each state and the District of Columbia in accordance with enabling legislation and the Federal Advisory Committee Act to advise the Commission on matters pertaining to the discrimination or denials of equal protection of the laws because of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, handicap, or in the administration of justice; and to aide the Commission in its statutory obligation to serve as a national clearinghouse for information on these subjects.

The purpose of the meeting today is to obtain information on the status of civil rights in Nevada.

2
    Based upon the information collected at this meeting, a
     summary briefing memorandum will be prepared for the use of the Advisory Committee and submission to the United States Commission on Civil Rights.

Each person who will participate has 2 voluntarily agreed to meet with the Committee. 3 The record of this meeting will remain open 4 for a period of 30 days following its conclusion. Committee welcomes additional written statements and 5 6 exhibits for inclusion in the record. These items 7 should be submitted to Western Regional Office of the 8 United States Commission on Civil Rights at 300 North 9 Los Angeles Street, Suite 2010, Los Angeles, California 10 90012. Any member of the Commission staff should be 11 able to assist you in the process for submitting 12 information. 13 Let us proceed. 14 I would like to, at this time, for the record 15 have the members of the State Advisory Commitee 16 introduce themselves, starting with Mike. 17 MR. 2 and Mr. Louis Overstreet, Executive Director of the Las Vegas Urban Chamber. Please approach us.

               MR. ISHMAN:
                            Good morning.
5
                               Good morning, Mr. Ishman.
               DAVID SANCHEZ:
6
               MR. ISHMAN: I guess we're going to go ahead
    and start with me?
8
               DAVID SANCHEZ: Yes, but in particular, the 9 Commission is interested in matters regarding civil 10 rights in the state of Nevada in terms of employment 11 discrimination, housing, administration of justice, and 12 matters pertaining to this hearing.
13
               So any comments that you have, any open 14 statements regarding these issues, we would really 15 appreciate it, and then I would invite the members of 16 the Advisory Committee to ask any questions as they so 17
18
                            Again, good morning, to you.
19
     The short of it is, civil rights as we know it, civil 20 rights are being reversed. That is a reality for many 21 of us in the minority community today. And I am going 22 to make sure I don't leave too much out.
                                                I will 23 improvise a little later. I have prepared something to 24
     read to you.

I believe the greatest travesty and offense to civil rights in Nevada is this right-to-work state attitude that simply means an employer can fire an employee at any time for no reason or almost any reason with no legitimate cause.

This is a big problem that unfortunately no legislator or regulatory agency wants to get in front of or make meaningful changes to.

The impression I often get in talking about this is that, this is the way it is, and if you want it changed, then you go do it, but not with my help.

And the biggest problem I see with this is that all too often minorities are subjected to racial epithets, sexual advances, or simply to unequal and inconsistent treatment by their immediate supervisors, and then usually it's upheld by the next level of administration without substantiation or validation of the allegations, and the accused find themselves unemployed.

Making matters even worse is the fact that the regulatory agencies paid and charged with remedying these cases almost always find the cases unsubstantiated, and I believe that this is due to slow, poor and/or seemingly no investigation at all.

Discrimination and retaliation in the past was up front and blatant. Today these same acts are subtle, discrete, and often perpetrated in a one-on-one situation.

Where we do find potential witnesses, the fear of losing their job becomes a staunch reality, especially when we ask the witness to put their observations in writing, making it almost impossible to substantiate any cases.

Discrimination is plainly evident to us in our school systems; that is, the Clark County School District and our higher education. Disparate treatment is most evident in the Clark County School District, but exists in both systems and is perpetrated by faculty versus students and parents, and by the administration versus the faculty.

There is now a growing number of discriminatory complaints being filed in the housing industry, and we encourage you to take a careful look at complaints coming from this area because we see this as the next serious area of concern.

As affordable housing disappears and job securities are almost non-existent, we are getting more and more complaints in this area; and, unfortunately, we know that the number of complaints will alarmingly grow.

The scales are tipped much too far in the favor of the powerful systems, giving very little, if any, credibility to the complaint or the complainant. There is a disparate need for citizen review boards or advisory panels, such as yours, in the areas of jobs, policing, education, health, and housing. And that's pretty much every area that we have so...

And these review boards should reflect the communities that they serve. There is certainly a greater need for regulatory agencies to get real and get serious about helping the people they serve and about bringing a quicker resolve to their problems.

Often, too many times, people don't continue to pursue their case because they soon learn that their living won't wait six months to a year for an uncertain resolve.

That ends my written statements, and then I would just go on to say that this is a real problem here in Las Vegas. And I certainly do, and our office seems to believe, that too many times these complaints are not given the serious concern and investigation, and I want to stress that because the investigations are not being done.

And I don't know where -- I don't really like to call names, but I don't know where the Nevada Equal Rights is in terms of clarifying their complaints. In the past, they would just date stamp complaints, and whether there was a credible complaint or not, it went by date. So if there is a backlog of six months, a real, meaningful case would have to wait six months just to be viewed and heard. And many times then, the complainant has moved on somewhere else, but the problems are still there.

The racist and discriminatory attitude that seems to permeate our systems is still there, and we just need to simply move some of these people out of the way if it takes that and get a public friendly attitude and uphold these complaints for which we find many of them are relevant. And, unfortunately, as I said early on, too many times witnesses are afraid to come forward to say what they have heard or seen because they fear intimidation, retaliation, and those sorts.

And so I would just close with saying, please give a serious look to these investigations where civil rights are concerned.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Ishman, before we entertain any questions from the panel, would you please describe for us your organization here in Southern Nevada and your role in the activity of your organization in monitoring civil rights.

1 Well, as you said, we are the MR. ISHMAN: 2 nation's oldest civil rights organization, the N, 3 double A, CP, as you would know it. We like to say 4 NAACP which is, the National Association for the 5 Advancement of Colored People. 6 I am the President of the Las Vegas branch, 7 and our main purpose is to ensure equality in 8 education, in social, political, and economic forums. 9 We seek to eliminate discrimination and racism in all 10 of those areas, and we serve everyone. Unlike some 11 people have said, we are an equal opportunity 12 organization, and we welcome all members and we 13 entertain all complaints. 14 I don't know if that kind of answers your 15 question. 16 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. Again, I will 17 open it up to the SAC members here for any questions of Mr. Ishman at this point. 18 19 TONY SANCHEZ: I have a question and a 20 The comment part was appreciative of your 21 participation in the rally downtown this past Monday, 22 and it got very good remarks, and I was wondering if 23 you could comment on your thoughts as it does relate to 24 labor issues of employees and what you have been presenting before us today.

MR. ISHMAN: Well, in terms of labor, I mean, and that's where the majority of our complaints come from. And, as I have stated, I believe that retaliation and discrimination is alive and well in the work place. And I have shared this with some of the human resource people, especially in the casino industry, that a lot of times, administration doesn't know what the low-level supervisors are doing. And I have a number of cases where, I mean, it was obvious, to us at least, that something of a discriminatory or retaliatory nature did in fact occur. But these people still keep their jobs or are allowed to still operate in those positions.

Unions are not the answer, but for minorities, in my opinion, it's the best answer. And there are concerted efforts to discourage employees from even entertaining becoming a part of a union.

We have, and I know you are familiar with, coyotes out there working that assist in these efforts. There are union busters that actually go to people's homes and discourage them from enjoining. Some of the properties even have subtle tactics to discourage their employees from joining unions.

But, again, as I say, this is the best thing in most cases for minorities, especially for 1 minorities, but I believe for everyone. 2 And I just say about the rally, I thought it 3 was awesome, and this is a cause, and even the 4 right-to-work attitude, I believe, I wish we could get 5 everyone to rally around that. And I don't know what 6 the exact answer is, and no one wants to simplify that 7 for me, but I wish I could change that right-to-work 8 attitude that we have here, which simply mean that an 9 employer can take advantage of their employees at will. 10 I hope that helped. 11 TONY SANCHEZ: I appreciate it. 12 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other questions? 13 Good morning, Mr. Ishman. MR. PENNINGTON: 14 Thank you for being here. Appreciate your coming. 15 MR. ISHMAN: Good morning. 16 MR. PENNINGTON: During your testimony, you 17 made the indication that there is -- could be, and has 18 been, a strong backlog of cases. And that one might 19 presume that in order to solve or mitigate that issue, 20 you would want to find some more funding to potentially 21 hire more investigators to handle those cases. 22 If that was the case and you did have that 23 adequate or appropriate level of funding, do you think 24 that would solve the problem, or is there still further 25 issues that need to be addressed?

And the reason I state that is, last week I understand the Governor has appointed a new commissioner for the Nevada Equal Rights Commission, a new chairman for that, and they are moving forward. So I would appreciate your thoughts or insights on that issue.

MR. ISHMAN: I don't know who the new person

(inaudible), but I will say this, and I don't mean to bash any organization, but because at the time
Linda Parvin took over as the administrator, I saw some changes coming. I don't know what the mechanism was, but they adopted the EEOC philosophy of then classifying cases, as opposed to date stamping them, as I said. So a case that had a lot of evidence, would not have to wait six months to be viewed and/or investigated.

To your question of more investigators, I think that's a great thing, but there is also a greater need for more investigations, not just investigators, some real, meaningful investigations. Like getting out of the office, and getting off the phone, and talking to say these employees.

Like I said, many of them are afraid certainly to put something in writing, but they are afraid of who might be listening to what they are saying. Many of them will tell you, Yes, I saw that.

2
     If you got in a one-on-one with a witness, they'll say, 3
     Yeah, I did see or hear that. But a lot of them still, and I'll say this, are still afraid of the retaliation.
5
    And that's a common place in the work place today.
6
               So many things are not substantiated simply because of the intimidation by the low-level 8 supervisors and the retaliation by the same.
9
               MR. PENNINGTON: Mr. Chairman, may I just 10 follow-up -- 11
               DAVID SANCHEZ:
                               Certainly.
12
               MR. PENNINGTON: -- with clarification.
13
               So you would suggest that we need a more 14 proactive, rather than reactive, process then?
15
               MR. ISHMAN: Certainly.
16
               MR. PENNINGTON:
                                Thank you.
17
               DAVID SANCHEZ: Ms. Femenella?
18
               MS. FEMENELLA:
                               This is not a question, but 19
     you were talking about the discrimination in the school 20
              Where do we start?
                                   The top down?
                                                  The bottom
21 up or what have you? Do you have any ideas of where 22 you would like to zero in on? Because education has 23
24
               MR. ISHMAN: Exactly. Exactly. Well, in my 25 humble opinion, I think it starts at the top, and the process needs to work. I often say to folks, I say,

Please forget about the fact or give up the belief that your vote doesn't count. I tell people all the time that your vote does count, and you need to make your vote and your voice heard.

Because we put, too many times, the wrong people in these high positions, and then we don't hold them accountable. But if you get the right person at the top, and they believe in equality and equity and fairness in the work place, in the school district, in the casinos, in the construction industry, if the right person is at the top and they make it known that they are not going to tolerate those acts, then I think it would trickle down. And certainly if there is some enforcement by that, then I think it will grow.

If they are not doing the right thing, then they're not the right person, get them out of there, and get some people who hold fast to equity and equality.

MS. FEMENELLA: Thank you.

MS. KINDRED: Could you be a little more specific with respect to the school system, either Clark County system or higher ed, whichever you choose to address, what you see as particular problems or the most immediate problems.

MR. ISHMAN: One of the most, and I don't know if that's the most immediate, but it's the most evident problem I see, is that there is no equal disbursement of the process RPCing and suspending children.

I have viewed and read so many complaints where a minority child is quickly RPCd or suspended, and then -- it's outrageous the indefinite suspensions. These kids will never get out of school. They suspend kids for weeks and for months. To me it's criminal, but that's another forum. But that's a serious problem.

And on paper, we see it simply where in fact a white child will have instigated the situation and caused the offense or whatever that is, but it's the minority child that will be RPCd or suspended.

And usually from what we see or we hear from the grapevine so to speak is, Oh, well, yeah that child -- and, unfortunately, because their parent is active in the PTA or their child is a member of the cheerleaders, because that was one of the examples, evident examples, that we had, that particular child was a cheerleading captain or something, and so they gave preferential treatment to this one. Somebody had to go, so no representation, so let's get rid of this child.

These kids are -- and these are, I'm talking about little kids, seven to ten years old being handcuffed and just crazy things go on in the Clark County School District. That's just one side.

Then there is the faculty or administrations of faculty abuse where we get complaints where, to us, it is discriminatory favoritism in a lot of these issues. And, again, that's administration versus the teaching staff. And right now, I can't recall any specifics because I really focus on these issues with kids. Because too many times, as I said, we always see this RPC thing. It just happens too quick, and the suspensions are definitely too long. I mean, no kid can graduate school when they are out and suspended for 15 to 30 days. That's crazy.

And then the parents are so frustrated because they are called to have a meeting with someone to discuss it, and it's taken lightly. Oh, well, okay, we will make it next week. And I know some of these parents are not as responsible as they should be, but the concern should be for the children. They may have a bad parent, but somebody in the school system ought to make themselves readily available, even if they set up an office and have one person always ready to hear

1 these things to at least initiate some type of 2 understanding about why this kid has been RPCd or 3 suspended. 4 MS. KINDRED: Has this increased in response 5 to the zero tolerance Policy? Have you seen a rise in 6 that in recent years? 7 Well, I would say, yes. And, MR. ISHMAN: 8 again, there is no equality. It's zero tolerance, but 9 how that is utilized is still in a discriminatory 10 nature. 11 DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Ishman, has the NAACP 12 attempted to establish a dialogue with the Clark County 13 School District? And, if so, what has the result been? 14 Well, there has been some MR. ISHMAN: 15 shuffling, of course, as you know, with the 16 administration. Actually, we are working, and do work, 17 closely with the Caucus of African American Nevadans. 18 And, actually, we have a date, and I think it's next 19 week -- it was cancelled. It was supposed to be this 20 week to meet with Walt Ruffles to discuss some of those 21 issues and just that and some other things as well. 22 But, in the past, yes, we have met with Carlos Garcia, 23 and it seems his hands was tied. 24 And I'll tell you one of the biggest problems 25 is the hold and the click that exists on the School

1 District Board of Trustees. All you have to do is 2 attend and hear how the votes go and see what happens 3 with that system to know that there is a serious 4 problem. And I don't know if there are going to be 5 some changes, but we're watching closely. 6 But, in my opinion, Shirley Barber was 7 someone who should have been the chair or president of 8 that board for a number of years, but there was always 9 a click, and I am not calling names, of four people who 10 would seek to make sure that she does not get this 11 seat. 12 And if you attend these things each year, it 13 would become plainly evident to you. And I call it a 14 bone when they made -- what's his name, the 15 president? -- Larry Mason, it was a concerted effort, 16 Well, here's just another step, we will get Larry in 17 there, because Larry always voted up Shirley Barber. 18 But the board would not hear of such a thing, and she 19 would never get to sit in that seat, and it's not 20 changing, at least not to today. 21 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other questions? 22 MS. GABATO: Thank you for comments, 23 Mr. Ishman. I have two questions or comments. 24 You mentioned the right-to-work laws in our 25 Now, how would you propose to change that regulation?

And No. 2, you mentioned about work place intimidation, sexual intimidation, fear, and loss of jobs and that you have met with some of the human resources departments in those work places. When you meet with them, what did you get out of these meetings? Were they open to your suggestions? Do they address the issues? Do they just dance around it?

MR. ISHMAN: Well, I think the dance, yeah, is the appropriate word for it. In many cases, it's a dance. And, in most cases, as I said, it seems to me anyway, that a lot of times that low-level supervisor as I spoke about is a friend of the human resource or the assistant-somebody or is a cousin or a close friend to someone, and so they're not going to be chastised for their actions or anything, or the complaint is not upheld because this is someone's friend who has actually perpetrated this action.

And so there is a favoritism that definitely goes on, and I have shared this many times with MGM properties because I have worked with them, and I commend them on their process, their diversity efforts, because, in the past, we did have a number, quite a large number of complaints, and, I mean, three years ago perhaps, from their properties.

1 Since they became -- have started this 2 project Diversity Champions that instead have 3 instituted, that has number has dropped dramatically, 4 and the attitude has changed dramatically. There's 5 more reception, perceived perception anyway, of a 6 complaint and concern for that person, and so that is 7 good. 8 I said to them, I wish you would share this. 9 Of course, that's not good for the industry, at least 10 not for their properties to share what they are doing. 11 I said, First off, I love that it started at the top, 12 but now it needs to trickle down. And their comments 13 to me was that, Well, unfortunately low-level 14 supervisors are the ones that are always are constantly 15 moving, and they are programmed -- they don't really 16 want to go everywhere, as I see it, as I have read 17 that. 18 But there certainly needs to be some efforts 19 to look closely at what these low-line supervisors are 20 saying and/or doing, especially when it comes to 21 someone's job. 22 MS. GABATO: What about the right-to-work 23 laws? 24 MR. ISHMAN: I'm sorry. That's where we were 25 supposed to go. I thought I had a seque into that,

The right-to-work, I will be perfectly honest, I am not clear on what that process is. I believe it is a legislative process. And I have talked to legislators and others, and it's something that no one wants to, as I said early on, get in front of or even map out and say, Well, here's the ABCs, here's what you need to do in a concerted effort.

And I would be happy to get in front of that -- some people such as the Caucus and the Urban Chamber, the combined chambers, to move that agenda, the labor industry. Because I think we all agree that the system that we have is just not working and it is not equal.

MS. GABATO: Thank you.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Ishman, you did raise the issue about the Nevada Equal Rights Commission. For the record, I would like to indicate that I have in hand here a March 24th, 2000, letter that I sent to the Honorable Kenny C. Guinn, Governor of the State of Nevada. I have not received a response in six years from the Governor.

I want to read in part into the record the following: The Advisory Committee, that's us, has had a long-standing concern about the decreasing

1 effectiveness of the Nevada Equal Rights Commission. 2 In the past, the Advisory Committee has 3 received complaints alleging significant delays in the 4 handling of complaints, lack of communication regarding 5 the status of complaints, and the lack of agency 6 independence. 7 The Advisory Committee has met with past 8 directors of NERC who have cited budget concerns, lack 9 of independence, and staff resources as hindrances to 10 their responsibilities. 11 The Advisory Committee believes that you can 12 play a significant role in the resurgence of this 13 important State Commission by again establishing the 14 NERC as independent agency with adequate resources to 15 accomplish its role. 16 We have not received response from the 17 Governor, but I did want to put on the record that we 18 have approached the Governor regarding your concern 19 about NERC. 20 MR. ISHMAN: Thank you. 21 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other comments from the 22 panelists? 23 MR. MARINI: Can I ask a question? Just an 24 informational -- is there a regional office of the EEOC 25 in Las Vegas?

1 MR. ISHMAN: No. They are talking about 2 bringing one here, and I don't know where it's at right 3 But I understand that one should be opening, I 4 quess, some time in the near future. 5 DAVID SANCHEZ: May I address that. I have 6 just received an email from Santos Albarran from the LA 7 office of the EEOC, and he says the office will be 8 established some time in this summer. He couldn't give 9 me any further details, but he has also asked that our 10 state Advisory Committee be the liaison to work with 11 other community-based organizations in setting up a 12 first meeting with the EEOC once they do establish this 13 office. 14 MR. MARINI: Thank you. 15 MR. PENNINGTON: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. 16 Mr. Ishman, during your testimony, you also 17 alluded to the fact that one of the major issues was 18 housing, affordable housing, workforce housing, et 19 cetera. 20 I just wanted to allow you the opportunity to 21 potentially expand on that issue as it is a statewide 22 issue that many people are facing right now and many 23 actions and initiatives are being considered and 24 recommendations are getting ready to move towards the 25 next legislative session. I just wanted to get your

1 thoughts on that issue since you brought it up as well. 2 MR. ISHMAN: We have made some small attempts 3 to talk to some of our legislators. And, actually, we 4 have a meeting set. And, again, this is -- the NAACP 5 works closely with the Caucus of African American 6 We are going to be meeting tomorrow with Nevadans. 7 black elected officials and make sure that they are 8 uniquely aware, and certainly we know that they are. 9 Anyone who is in Las Vegas with their eyes open knows 10 that there is a serious problem with affordable

Out of that comes the opportunity for more discrimination or retaliation as these apartment homes become the place that most people have to turn to now. And their attitude is simply that if I don't like you and you're not being subservient or if you speak up for your rights for whatever the case maybe and I don't like it, I'm going to retaliate against you and make your life miserable.

And we get those complaints now in an increasing number. And, as I said earlier, we know that's going to grow because most of the people are going to be funneled into the same areas. And so those few affordable housing complexes are going to be inundated with people, and their tolerance level is

1 going to drop dramatically. And so we are going to see 2 more and more of that. 3 But we are working with the labor industry. And I know some of the folks who are at the school 4 5 unions, NSEA, CCEA, are working diligently. There's a coalition -- and I believe the meeting was cancelled or 6 7 I was out of town because I know it was due to happen 8 some time in the recent past, but I was unable to make 9 it. There was a big forum to identify the real problem 10 areas, and that was going to be a legislative issue. 11 But, as I said, I was not there, so I don't 12 have the relevant information that would prove that 13 this is, you know, going to be a real problem in the 14 near future. 15 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any further questions before 16 we call our next panelist? 17 One last comment. Thank you, Mr. Ishman, for 18 being here. I want to mention to the panel that almost 19 a year ago, May 24th, 2005, Mr. Ishman and I appeared 20 on a civil rights panel at the Clark County building, 21 and it was called Civil Rights, the Unfinished Agenda. 22 So I'm glad to see that you're here, and I appreciate 23 your comments. Thank you, Mr. Ishman. 24 MR. ISHMAN: Thank you all for listening. 25 DAVID SANCHEZ: Our next panelist, will you please introduce yourself and your organization and 1 2 your role in the organization. 3 Good morning. MR. OVERSTREET: Yes. My name 4 is Louis Overstreet. I'm the Executive Director of the 5 Urban Chamber of Commerce. 6 I see with two gentlemen on the panel with 7 the last name of Sanchez, I hope you won't mind if I 8 call one "the good looking Mr. Sanchez" and "the other 9 quy." DAVID SANCHEZ: Senior and junior will do. 10 11 MR. OVERSTREET: First, I would like to say 12 that our organization, as a matter of public record, 13 has been very critical of what we perceive to be the 14 total ineffectiveness of the Nevada Commission on Equal 15 Rights. 16 I won't pull any punches, and I think, 17 Mr. Chairman, as we indicated when we first met about 18 in 2000, that was a concern. And we have similar 19 letters that you have to the Governor asking the 20 Commission to be placed back under his direct control 21 and out of his office. He presently is housed in 22 (inaudible), and, like you said, we haven't gotten any 23 action there for a number of years. So we are glad to 24 see the EEOC is coming in. I think in that regard, you have a situation with (inaudible) challenging the

1 It was determined effectiveness of the organization. 2 they were getting about 5 or $600 to close a case. 3 Knowing the history of this state, it is also 4 inconceivable that the Commission would find no 5 probable cause in nearly two-thirds of the complaints 6 filed with the agency as recently as 2001. 7 public hearings, they indicated that they found no 8 probable cause in 63 to 64 percent of the cases filed 9 with them. 10 This sad state of affairs moved our 11 organization to convene a Blue Ribbon Committee on Race 12 in 2001, comprised of a 30-person panel representing 13 the broad cross-section of the citizenry of Clark 14 County to include participation by Mayor Goodman. 15 The Committee held four public hearings on 16 the topical areas of employment, 17 contracting/employment, social services, and the 18 criminal justice system. 19 I will briefly read into the record a 20 recommendation from each of the four referenced areas. 21 Also, I have a limited number of copies available for 22 distribution, as well as the list of persons who served 23 on the committee and the persons who copies of the 24 report was forwarded to. The report was in bound form and it was about this thick, so you can understand that we put quite a bit of work in on that.

After my remarks, I'm going to answer any question you might have of me, particularly in the areas of education. I think Dean was a little reluctant to naming names, but let me give you the four names on the board: Ruth Johnson, Mary Beth Scow, Sheila Moulton, and Susan Brager-Wellman has been the main source of our problems with the School District. So I have no problem adding that to the public record.

Also, we are researching whether or not the statement in the constitution applies to term limits of school board members. Right now, it's a 12-year term limit, but we are uncertain whether that applies to state school members or as well as trustees of local school districts. That is going to be very critical to allow these people that have been on their for 12 years, so hopefully there will be a turn-over in that area.

In the area of education, it is strongly recommended that the Clark County School District establish an incentive process to encourage qualified, seasoned, and effective teachers to continue their assignment for several years at schools where the students are most challenged.

It is recognized that funding and collective

1 bargaining may be elements tending to inhibit 2 implementation of such incentive plans. If not, then 3 the community should be prepared for the alternatives; i.e., functional illiteracy, higher crime rates, 4 5 expanding social services requirements, and a steadily 6 falling academic achievement and economic growth. All 7 of these undesirable attributes translate into 8 demonstrably higher costs to the public. 9 In the area of contracting, Clark County's 10 Business Development Advisory Council should continue 11 to serve as the coordinating body for data gathering as 12 well as serving as the drafting body for public 13 policies and initiatives when trying to impact the 14 public process. 15 Employment, a formal request should be made 16 to our congressional delegation to have the U.S. 17 Commission on Civil Rights perform an in-depth study of 18 the failure of federal EEO efforts in Nevada as administered by the Nevada Commission of Equal Rights.

In the area the social services, ways to make child care and learning environments affordable for the working poor must be identified.

And criminal justice system, a comprehensive study needs to be undertaken to determine the following:

1 One, overcharging persons of color for 2 alleged criminal offenses. 3 Two, indisparity (sic) based on race in the 4 setting of bond for similar offenses. 5 Three, indisparity (sic) in the sentencing 6 and time served by persons of different races for the 7 same crime. 8 And four, any disparity in granting a parole 9 as a function of race. 10 Those are my prepared remarks, and I hope 11 that those of you who may have received a copy of this 12 report of number a years ago or if you have any 13 particular areas of concern, probably education. 14 think committee sanctions and I and a number of other 15 people have been working on this. 16 But the reality of this district is, as the 17 recent statistics indicate, there is 38 percent Latino, 18 38 percent White, 15 percent African American, 19 8 percent Asian. So you have a minority and majority 20 school district compromised of about 61 percent of 21 persons of color. And, it's unfortunate that, as Dean 22 pointed out, we have a school board that's so out of 23 touch with the changing demographic of this county, and 24 particularly the School District.

I'm ready to answer any questions.

1	DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. Any questions
2	from the SAC?
3	MR. OVERSTREET: I know I wasn't that good.
4	MS. FEMENELLA: Mr. Overstreet, thank you for
5	coming.
6	You touched upon the board. Members have
7	served on there for a period of time, 12 years. They
8	are in elected positions, and wouldn't that have to
9	come before the legislature?
10	MR. OVERSTREET: Here's where we are
11	uncertain that that was the case. If it does and
12	Tony can certainly speak to this, Mr. Sanchez can
13	certainly speak to this better than I can in terms of
14	whether or not that would require a constitutional
15	process. Because right now, it was our lay
16	interpretation that they not be able to serve after the
17	12 years.
18	I think Ms. Brager, I believe, has announced
19	that she is going to run against Lynette Boggs-McDonald
20	so that may be one of the problems that we have.
21	But here again, you have people internally
22	unprepared to handle a $3 billion school district. The
23	capital and operating budget combined is over
24	$3 billion a year. At the time we did the study, it
25	would have ranked at like the 78th largest corporation in the Fortune 500. And if you took that school board, would you want those people managing a $3 billion corporation? And we try to phrase it in that manner -- and ask (inaudible) this a very difficult situation.

I think Dean also mentioned that Walt is coming out of the community. But you have to realize given -- I was a part of that process when we tried to go to New York and recruit a gentleman to be a part of this community. There was tremendous political dealing behind the scenes. So, obviously, Walt would be beholden to the four people who insisted that he remain there. I think the vote was 4, 3 with Terri Janison, Shirley Barber, and Larry Mason supporting the gentleman out of New York, with Susan Brager being the swing vote. There was a tremendous amount of politics taking place at the School District in terms of the future of how we are going to be challenged.

But I think Walt, to his credit, has picked up with some of these school autonomy zones and some other kind of issues that hopefully would impact the academic achievement.

It's like there was a minute in the public record on the proficiency tests. Fortunately, my daughters have graduated from college and started their own careers. But if I kid a who performed satisfactory for years in high school and they introduced a proficiency test there was not in phase with the minimal graduation requirement, I would have certainly sued the School District.

That is so important that I think we are going to try and look at that under our able group of advisors of Latin/Latinos for education. That is just a major concern if you have factoring polynomials on our proficiency test, and you took basic math in high school as a graduation requirement, that's patently unfair to the people who went through that. So they are trying to get it back in phase where you would be tested on, I guess, information -- I know I probably couldn't have passed a proficiency exam to get out of college on some stuff I took as a freshman.

You know, so I think that that was hastily put together by a couple people who have agendas of their own. And, unfortunately, in this political climate, you just can't get people to step forward because of two things: Fear of criticism and fear of failure.

You have some very talented people who are very knowledgeable about the educational processes, and you meet with them in small group settings like this and not on the record, you'll have tremendous ideas

1 about how things can change. But you ask them to come 2 to a public forum and put their name or credibility on 3 line, they will not do it. 4 MS. FEMENELLA: Unfortunately, those 5 proficiency tests come under the guise of the No Child 6 Left Behind which comes out of Washington D.C. MR. OVERSTREET: Doris, I think that they had 7 8 admitted that proficiency a year or two before No Child 9 Left Behind, or I can stand corrected. 10 MS. FEMENELLA: I can't say, but I don't 11 think so. Having sat upon the state board, I don't 12 But I do recall that, and do know, that recall that. 13 this comes under the guise of the No Child Left Behind, 14 so unless state acts on it and says that we -- you 15 know -- then you can do something about. MR. OVERSTREET: 16 You could leave that 17 $122 million a year we get from the feds. You know, on 18 a $3 billion budget, I could find 122 million 19 quaranteed. 20 So if that is a concern and you are concerned 21 with getting federal monies, then just let the federal 22 money go back, and let's try to do what's right for our 23 kids in the state of Nevada. 24 DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Overstreet, you mentioned 25 the issue of criminal justice system. This State

1 Advisory Committee held a public hearing in the early 2 1990's in Reno regarding community/police relations. 3 From your perspective, from the African 4 American community, the minority community, what is the relationship, in your opinion, between the minority 5 communities here in Southern Nevada and law enforcement 7 in general? 8 MR. OVERSTREET: I think, in all honesty, 9 it's improved somewhat under Bill Young. Bill Young 10 grew up in West Las Vegas, and he has good credibility with persons of color. He has done a lot of recruiting 11 12 with the bilingual police officers which I think helped 13 a lot in our city given the large Latino population.

So to be fair about at that level, I think he has done a credible job. The problem is with the judges and the sentencing patterns. I know when I was president of the (inaudible) black caucus for eight years, when we did a disparity study, it was clear it impacted — that persons of color was getting four times the amount of time a white person was for similar possessions with drugs.

And I am sure some of these judges wouldn't just automatically get re-elected if it came out how biased they are in their sentencing practices. I think we would have a change in their attitudes since they would be open to public scrutiny.

2
               DAVID SANCHEZ:
                               Thank you.
               Are there any other questions for
    Mr. Overstreet before we take a break and start the next panel?
               MR. ISHMAN:
                            If I may?
7
                               Mr. Ishman, did you want to
               DAVID SANCHEZ:
    come forward? Michael, do you have a question?
               MR. ISHMAN: Just briefly on that subject 10 while Louis brought that up.
11
               First off, the judicial system I think is 12 It's that Judge Judy attitude that seems really broke.
     to permeate the system right now.
14
               And whether it's real or perceived power that 15 these judges have, it's outrageous. And, I mean, 16 before a person opens their mouth -- and we get those 17 kind of complaints too -- they're told, You're lying, 18
     we don't believe you, this and that. And there are 19
     some cases where it may seem like it's not the truth, 20 but, in fact, it is the truth.
21
               And their patience seems to be short with 22 trying to extract the real truth out of someone's 23 testimony. It's just -- I'm not hearing it, get out of 24 here. And, I mean, their attitude tone is demeaning to 25 a lot of people. And that is something that really needs to, truly needs to be looked at.

And in terms of the police department, Metro has made some great strides. They have a civilian review board -- well, yeah, citizen review board that is operating. And I believe North Las Vegas and Henderson really needs to have one and certainly North

Las Vegas.

We right now hear of too many issues, and I guess because they have the gang task force and they operate in North Las Vegas, that we have a high number of complaints, but I have spoken to Chief Perisi about this. I have spoken to one of our upcoming speakers and Sheriff Young about the attitude. And, actually, we are going to further those discussions.

But I learned, and I am a retired police officer, that you should initiate -- or I believe you should initiate contacts with a you're-okay-and-I'm-okay attitude. And I often say you let the person, meaning the officer, let the person decide how this is going to go. If I approach you in a respectful manner, say, Ma'am, Sir, you were speeding, may I have your license and registration. Now, if they get irate, then I have to perhaps meet that level. And, ideally, you want to de-escalate a situation, but in order to get control, you may have to go there.

1 But a lot of times, the attitude is just 2 simply, I'm the boss, you know, and you are just going to take whatever abuse I have to dish out. And the 3 4 attitude is that there is no real reason for what you did and you're wrong. And that's --5 6 Did you have a question? DAVID SANCHEZ: 7 MR. OVERSTREET: Let me follow-up on what he 8 said in terms of the perceptions of crime in this 9 community. 10 We have put a black or brown face on crime in 11 this community. And a typical example, we did a study, 12 I think it was 2003, where we clipped the front pages 13 of stories relating to crime. Almost without fail if 14 the perpetrator was black or brown, his or her picture 15 would be on the front page. If the perpetrator was 16 white, the victims of the crimes picture would be on 17 the paper. 18

the paper.

That creates a tremendous perception problem in this community. And so we have to understand what that does because we are more than likely the victim of a crime so it's a (inaudible) support.

It's like another -- I'm sure, David, you're very familiar with that. You know, you almost have no possibility of being killed by a person of another race that you don't know. Black folks are killing black

1 folks, brown folks are killing folks, white folks are 2 killing white folks. 3 If you had a situation in this country where 4 people of different races were killing people of other 5 races, crime in this country would be stopped and dealt 6 with immediately. But as long as crime is on people of 7 similar backgrounds as yourself, you know them, it 8 ain't going to change. 9 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. 10 Any questions? 11 MR. PENNINGTON: Thank you. Mr. Overstreet, 12 thank you again for appearing here today. 13 I want to go back to your opening remarks and 14 your opening statement and discuss some opportunities 15 that may be presented to the State and this Committee. 16 You were quite critical about the 17 effectiveness and the history of the Nevada Equal 18 Rights Commission, and you were quite supportive about 19 the opportunity for the EEOC to open up a Las Vegas 20 office. 21 Knowing that the Governor has appointed 22 Deborah Madison who has worked in the Nevada Equal 23 Rights Commission for a while to the new administration 24 and the fact we have to the EEOC office coming in, what 25 recommendations might you pass along to us as this

1 Committee gets ready to work with that transition to 2 bring the EEOC office here to seek and collaborate in 3 forums or issues to focus on? 4 5 6 7 8 9 MR. OVERSTREET: 10 11 12 Governor. 13 14

20

And I might just conclude my thought with the fact that knowing that there are two different jurisdictions that are kind of delineated between state law and federal law, how can that collaboration kind of be better brought together from your point of view?

I think, as I indicated, there has to be a strong public support for the efforts of the Commission, and that has to come from the And we have an opportunity now, those of us who are working in the various campaigns for persons seeking the office of Governor, to stress that it is a desire on the part of the people we represent that that office be housed as an independent agency (inaudible).

And, secondly, you need to in-service staff. There are numerous complaints, and I know Dean hears this and maybe Tony when he was President of the Latin Chamber, is that people are discouraged from filing complaints by the staff themselves. And here again, sometimes the documentation may not be critical -- I mean, complete or what have you, and there are some cases where, you know, we got to play the race card unfortunately when there is no merit to the playing of such a card.

But their staff that is to be in-service so there is a consistent level of understanding of how laws should be enforced in this state.

And, as I think Dean also indicated, you don't belittle people when they have a concern. And I think when I lived in Alaska, they have the friendliest people in the world. And I think people here in — when I first came to Las Vegas, they were almost as rude as the people I met in Chicago, so we have to change that in that regard.

So I think it's a more attitudinal kind of shift and a refocusing. I think as our community grows and grows that it's important upon our communities to exercise those political kinds of opportunities to make change.

I think there has been a dominant group in charge based on a religious preference in this state that has made some -- and to their credit, that have had influence well beyond their numbers. So not only has the numbers shifted, people who have attitudes that are similar to the ones I hope I possess, that we can elect fair-minded people to public office.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you, Mr. Overstreet.

Any other questions before we take a break?

1 TONY SANCHEZ: I just have one brief 2 observation. I think I worked with Mr. Overstreet on 3 almost a daily basis in the past couple years, both on the Association of Blacks and Latinos in Education, as 4 5 well with the Latino Chamber and the Urban Chamber. 6 I am as -- and I agree with you. 7 upcoming forum at the end of June with our 8 two associations, and Mr. Ishman and everybody is going 9 to be invited. But asking the Governor candidates to 10 come and speak to the minority communities in college, and June 27th is that date. I think the independence 11 12 of the Nevada Commission on Equal Rights is a very 13 fitting topic for that forum, so I look forward to 14 that, but it's been highlighted after hearing your 15 testimony. 16 MR. OVERSTREET: Thank you, Attorney Sanchez. 17 If there are no further DAVID SANCHEZ: 18 questions, let's take a five-minute break and come back 19 for the Panel No. 2, and we will set that up shortly. 20 (Short recess) 21 DAVID SANCHEZ: This meeting of the Nevada 22 Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on 23 Civil Rights is now in order again. 24 We have before us a member of Panel No. 2, 25 Mr. Rod Jett, Assistant Sheriff.

1 Mr. Jett, would you introduce yourself to us 2 and define your role for your organization. 3 You bet. My name is Rod Jett, MR. JETT: 4 J-E-T-T. I am the Assistant Sheriff in charge of all 5 law enforcement operations. I command five divisions, 6 all patrol, all substations, the detective bureau, 7 homeland security, and special ops. This panel 8 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you, sir. 9 is convened for the purpose of establishing the status 10 of civil rights in the state of Nevada. We have in the 11 past investigated police/community relations in 12 Northern Nevada. 13 From your perspective, sir, if you would give 14 us, from your perspective, what the police/community 15 relationship is here in Southern Nevada, especially 16 with our minority community and law enforcement. 17 I'll try my best. I think I'm in MR. JETT: 18 the unique position to speak on this topic. I was born 19 in this community. I've been a policeman for 28 years. 20 Just by circumstance, I happened to grow up in West 21 Las Vegas in the projects, so I have seen a lot of 22 change in our community and a lot of progress. 23 And I can tell you that law enforcement today 24 as compared to 1978 when I first hired on is like day 25 and night. Now, do we still have our challenges?

course we do. We still have people who don't understand the value of diversity in law enforcement. We still have people who are immature, and it takes them a while to get to the point where they are competent police officers. And that is the one component of policing that I think that gets us in the press from a negative standpoint the majority of time.

I think, more often than not, it's due to inexperience and not having an understanding of the cultures, as opposed to racism. Now, is there still racism in law enforcement? Absolutely, but it's not the type of racism that I think rears its ugly head on the street each day where cops interact with the public. I think that is fear, and here again, the lack of knowledge of cultures, different cultures.

I can tell you that our number one complaint that we receive in Internal Affairs is interaction with the public which just basically means being rude to the public. Now, I think that tells a story. It's not use of force. It's not inappropriate force. It's interaction with public, so I either step up to your car and I make an inappropriate comment, I don't tell you why you're being stopped, I'm sarcastic or condescending.

And we have made great strides in attempting to address those issues; however, we still hire 21-year olds from our community. And one of the changes that's occurred in policing from the time I hired on until today is, when I hired on, I had prior military experience, as did most of the folks who entered law enforcement. So we came here with a maturity that we don't see now.

Now we see a lot of kids that join our department -- or first of all, I came here not because of the pay. The pay was secondary. I came here because I like red lights and sirens and helping people. Now, when you ask a person that is hiring on our department, Why did you choose to come here; Well, you have good benefits, you have a good dental plan. Now, that's a shift.

And, additionally, I'm amazed at the number of people who are 21, 25, 28 years old who still live with their parents. That just never happened back when I hired on.

So you have all these factors that contribute to the type of person that eventually gets to the point that they step up to your car on a car stop.

Now, what are we in law enforcement, specifically our department, doing to address that?

We're just doing a variety of things. Everything from diversity training which is mandated, and we use one of our local community leaders, Mujahid Ramadan. He has been a contractor with our department for the past five years to provide mandated diversity training to our department officers.

Additionally, we take Title 7 issues, both internally and externally, very serious. When allegations are made, most officers are relieved of duty until the investigation is complete. And, at all times, that person is removed from the work place as to where the allegation or alleged misconduct occurred at.

From an overall standpoint, law enforcement within our community, and I am speaking only from a perspective of Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department, I am extremely proud of the fact that the majority, the vast majority, of our officer-involved shootings now, when I hear about the details of the case, I don't get a twinge in my back.

I have always insisted that policing be done, that we use only force as a last resort. And I remember several times in my career where we would commit fatal shootings and it would turn out the suspect had a pager or did some type of move that the officer perceived as being a threat to him or her. And I am extremely proud of the fact that when I hear about a shooting these days, the suspect had a gun, more often than not fired a shot at us, and I think that's the time when force is appropriate.

Now, what is the reason that we have been able to reduce our fatal shootings? It's our training. It's our innovative tools. I mean, the basic officer on the street now has a beanbag shotgun which is basically just a shotgun shell with a beanbag inside. And people that we used to kill because they were carrying a knife or threatening us with a stick, now we shoot them with a beanbag. It makes a small bruise on the chest in the area that you shoot the person, and they are taken into custody.

We also have Tasers. There is a lot of controversy about Tasers. I can tell you I think Tasers are one of the greatest tools that law enforcement has ever had access to. I think Tasers have reduced our fatal shootings by no more than probably 60 percent in our department.

There has been numerous incidents that I read in the watch commander log each morning where we entered a house with either a mentally ill person, a person with a knife, a person with a stick, a person who was threatening our officers in ways that ten years ago our only option would have been fatal force which means we would have shot that person. So I'm extremely proud about that.

We also take great consideration when we are doing pursuit driving with this community. We have one of the most stringent pursuit driving policies in the nation. If the crime is a property crime or a stolen vehicle, officers are not allowed to chase that vehicle unless you have a secondary crime that goes with that either stolen vehicle or property crime. And what that means is, if you're driving a stolen car and you just robbed a bank, we're going to chase you. If we run your car on our computer and it only comes back as a stolen vehicle, that officer is not allowed to chase the vehicle.

And, you know, the reason we do that is because we're concerned about our community. We live in this community, and I don't want my wife or my son going through an intersection and being slammed into by the bad guy who was doing 60, 70 miles an hour because he's trying to allude us.

Now, are we still going to have people killed in our community as a result of police chases? It's just a sad fact of today's society, it is going to happen because there are some people that I think society expects us to chase.

From a community relation's standpoint, the Bolden area command in West Las Vegas which is predominantly inhabited by African Americans, it's always been a location where traditionally we haven't had the best relationships with the folks in that community. That's the community that I grew up in.

And a lot of that was based on -- well, I'd say the vast majority was based on the types of officers that staffed that area. There was no real desire to establish a relationship, and I mean from a global standpoint. Of course, we had our individual officers who did their individual work, but I heard one of the speakers before me address this issue, that in certain areas of town, because you live there, you're automatically put in a category as being a criminal.

And I am so happy to say here today with complete honesty that we have changed that type of mentality in our department. We honest to God have, and that includes our Hispanic community.

We made an effort four years ago, five years ago to reach out to our Hispanic community from the standpoint that we noticed that Hispanics were being disproportionately victimized, and, at the same time, chose not to report that crime because of fear of being deported or fear that we would be concerned more about their immigration status as opposed to them being a crime victim. So Sheriff Jerry Keller started a program called the HART Team, which is the Hispanic American Resource Team, and their sole job was to go out into the Hispanic communities and establish relationships with folks who live in those communities to make them aware of services that we provide and to make them feel comfortable with picking up the phone and calling 911 when they become a victim of a crime.

We also created an Hispanic interpreter service which is where we hire temporary workers from the community and they assist our officers 24 hours a day with interpreting for our Spanish-speaking public on car stops. Any contact that we have with the public from a patrol standpoint, that service is used.

Recently, we teamed up with the VERA group which is a non-profit organization dedicated to changing the wrongs that have been created in policing. They joined up in conjunction with the COPS Program which is headed by the National Justice Program, and they are going to do an assessment of our organization and tell us how we can even further improve the services and our ability to serve our Hispanic population.

So anything that this organization can find that's going to help us police our community better, we're all for it. There has never been a better opportunity for progressive police work to be conducted in our communities.

We have a very open-minded sheriff, a very open-minded staff. Our staff has never been more diverse than it is today. I'm the highest ranking African American officer that's ever been on this department. Our Deputy Chief of Detectives is African American. And for the first time in history, the Lieutenant in charge of homicide is an African American.

That just tells you the kind of evolution that LVMPD has gone through in the past 28 years. Now, you would have to believe that if that kind of change is going on internally, there is a lot of change going on externally, if for no other reason just because the work place is more diverse and people in positions of power have a better relationship and a better understanding of the challenges of all the people in our community, not just a certain segment.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Before we entertain any questions from the panelist, I would just like to make a statement to you, Assistant Sheriff.

I started my career with the Los Angeles

County Department of Personnel. I did recruiting for the Los Angeles Sheriff's Department. I also served as a member of the Use of Force Review Board under Sheriff Moran and Sheriff Keller.

But I'm also aware of the fact that in the

But I'm also aware of the fact that in the 1990s, the Las Vegas Metropolitan Police Department fell in disfavor of the United States Department of Justice, and that there was a consent decree in terms on your hiring practices that just recently, I believe, last year or year before that, was abandoned.

MR. JETT: It was last year.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Can you comment on that in terms of the hiring practices, specifically the minority hiring practices of the police department up to that point, and what you are doing at this point for recruiting.

MR. JETT: You bet. You know, when I first joined the department in 1978, my academy was composed of 25 people, and I was the only person of color, period, in my academy class. At the time, we had just a little over 400 persons of color on the entire department, and that included the Detention Center.

At that point, there was really no real incentive to recruit minorities of any type because I don't think there had really been any pressure on the department to do so, nor do I think the people that ran the department at the time saw a need to have persons — of color.

Now, based on my perspective, I don't really particularly think that that was racist. I think it was more a good-old-boy system. I think it was more nepotism and my friend more so than anything.

Now, certainly back in those days, race certainly came into play far more so than it does today. However, I don't think that was the primary motivator, and the reason I say that is when I first came on this department, I think I was treated with respect. I think I was properly trained. I think the times that I interacted with training officers, they treated me as they did the white officers on the squad. I never experienced any negativity from the people who were training me.

Now, certainly when I progressed through field training and went into substations, we still had, you know, you would come into the briefing room, and there would be derogatory remarks written on the board, and there would be monkey dolls put on your briefing table, but that was people that you could dismiss as just being ignorant. But, organizationally, I think everybody at that point was treated the same from the standpoint of entry.

Now, we had big problems when it came to lateral transfers. If you were a minority person, you could put in a transfer and maybe get to Traffic, but you couldn't expect to go to the Detective Bureau or any specialized units on our department.

Additionally, we had very few minority supervisors. I think I could count them on one hand.

So I think -- well, the Federal Government confirmed that the testing process had some serious challenges, as did our recruiting efforts.

Now, as a result of the consent decree, several officers were mandated to be transferred to specialized units. Believe it or not, this organization had never had an Hispanic or a black officer in narcotics, as wild as that may seem. And one of the tools that was used back when I probably had five years on the department was white officers used to do black face. They would paint their face, and those were the tactics that we used if we needed to go into a black neighborhood and purchase narcotics. So here again, you can see we have come a long way.

Now, as a result of the consent decree, we didn't have mandates. The Federal Government didn't put mandates on us. They agreed that we could use goals which means basically that the Federal Government would entrust us enough with yearly reporting if we showed a concerted effort, a real effort, to go out and actively recruit blacks, Hispanics, and females, that they would allow us to do that without mandating that you hire 100 blacks or 100 Hispanics each year, which I think does a real disservice for Hispanics, for blacks, and for females, because in a police culture, unless you've earned your way, you have no respect. So it does me no good to give you a rank as a Sergeant as a Hispanic, as a female, as a black because nobody is going to respect that. And you already have your own challenges even when you take the test properly and earned it. Some people are still going to challenge you but...

And that's the reason why I am totally opposed to mandates from the Federal Government when it comes to those types of things.

But the goals, we tried our best, and I really saw some dramatic change when Sheriff Keller took office. Sheriff Keller created the Minority Recruitment Council, the Hispanic Recruitment Council, the Women's Recruitment Council. And these are all different councils of people in those particular groups made up of community leaders, and they meet with our

1 recruiting and human resources staff on a monthly 2 basis, and they devise and create strategies to recruit 3 more minorities to our department. 4 And we have been very successful in doing I just got the recent numbers today. American 5 6 Indian, we have 49 employees; Asian Pacific, we have 7 198; black Americans, now we have 587; female officers, we have 17 -- I'm sorry, female employees, we have 1754 8 9 female employees; Hispanics, we have 174. 10 Now, that's a dramatic change from even 11 15 years ago when we didn't have the type of 12 recruitment efforts that we have on-going now. 13 With our new sales tax initiative that was 14 recently approved last year, we are going to have to 15 hire approximately 320 officers each year. We're 16 trying to run four academies each year comprised of 17 90 individuals.

Now, that's been a challenge, but it's been a challenge all over this nation. LAPD currently has over a thousand vacancies which are funded to be filled. LASO has the same problem. San Diego PD has over 400 vacant positions which are currently funded that they can't fill.

20

So far through our recruitment efforts, we haven't had any problems to date filling our 90-person academies. Now, through attrition, if we start out with 90 people, I just checked the numbers on our current academy, we are down to 76 people. But I would much rather wash those people out in the academy before they take whatever challenges and inequities that they had out on the street. But as far as lateral transfers internally and the promotional process.

I don't have the exact numbers for supervisors in our department from the standpoint of color, but I can tell you it's diverse. And when you walk down the hall or just come out to one of our briefings on New Year's Eve when we have just about every supervisor that we have on the department working, I'm extremely proud of the fact that our workforce is made up of -- we currently have two female captains. I'm sorry, we have three. We have a female Captain who heads-up the Airport Command, we have a female Captain who is in charge of Homeland Security, and we have a female Captain who is in charge of Northeast Area Command which is down at Washington and Mojave. We have one black Deputy Chief. That's Deputy Chief Greg McCurdy.

Now, where we're having our greatest challenge with black officers is at the Captain rank.

And I personally go out and ask numerous black

1 lieutenants, Why isn't it that you don't choose to move 2 any higher. And these days, it has nothing to it with The answer, more often than not is, I don't want 3 4 to take on that challenge. Because we ask a lot of our 5 area commanders. It's not abnormal to have to work 6 between 70 and 80 hours a week, and Captains don't get 7 Once you make the rank of Captain and on up, there is no overtime attached to that. It's whatever 8 9 the job that needs to be done that day that dictates 10 the hours that you work. 11 So, you know, when I talk to young people in 12 our workforce now and I ask them, Why aren't you trying 13 to move here or why don't you choose to move up in the 14 ranks, more often than not, it's personal, Because it's 15 going to impact my family too much, I like taking my 16 kids to play soccer in the evening. And the further 17 you go up in rank, the less you have opportunities to 18 do that and still be effective in the work place. 19 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any questions for Assistant 20 Sheriff? 21 Thank you, Assistant Sheriff. TONY SANCHEZ: 22 Just, I guess, to get a better perspective of 23 the numbers that you were giving, you indicated 24 198 folks, Asian Americans; 587 African Americans;

174 Hispanics. What is the total universe there, and

1	are those officers or are those
2	MR. JETT: That's our entire department.
3	TONY SANCHEZ: So that would be everything
4	from clerical to
5	MR. JETT: Correct. That's both civilian,
6	commissioned officers, and commissioned officers in the
7	Detention Center.
8	TONY SANCHEZ: How many officers does Metro
9	have right now?
10	MR. JETT: We have 2200 badge carriers, and
11	that includes and what I mean by that, that's
12	commissioned officers, approximately 2200.
13	TONY SANCHEZ: Do you have any numbers in 14	terms of how many of the 2200 are African American or
15	Hispanic or Asian?
16	MR. JETT: You know, I sure don't. I would
17	be more than happy to get that information to you.
18	Unfortunately, I got the call last night to appear here
19	today for Stan.
20	And I tell you, I keep all this information,
21	and I would certainly be happy to come back at another
22	date because this is one of my passions to ensure that
23	we have a diverse work place and we police every part
24	of this community in a way we police the most influent
25	parts.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: If you could send that 2 information to the Western Regional Office and 3 Mr. Pilla, we would appreciate that for the record. 4 MR. JETT: You bet. I certainly will. 5 TONY SANCHEZ: If I might, that was just 6 something interesting. I hadn't seen those numbers 7 before. 8 But, like you, I was born and raised in 9 Las Vegas. Fifteen years ago, Metro officers used to 10 take INS agents door-to-door showing them where the undocumented aliens lived, the immigrants lived. 11 12 And so I agree with you that much change has 13 occurred over the past 15 years, especially, quite 14 frankly, since Sheriff Keller came on board. And it 15 has actually been greatly enhanced by Sheriff Young 16 who, I think you heard from earlier comments, has a 17 very good working relationship with minority 18 communities. 19 Four years ago, the Latin Chamber of 20 Commerce, when I was the President, we went to 21 Washington D.C. and lobbied Senator Reid to get a 22 half-million dollar grant for the HART program which 23 was awarded. And that was one of the greatest 24 achievements that we saw in terms of working with Metro 25 and what we were doing as a community chamber.

it's my understanding now that Sheriff Young has actually put the HART program into his budget as opposed to relying on funding.

MR. JETT: That is correct.

TONY SANCHEZ: So that was something that was very much appreciated.

In my day job, I have the opportunity to lobby the Nevada State legislature on a full-time basis and have worked with Stan Olsen over the last couple of sessions. And one program in particular that Stan was very instrumental in two sessions ago, in the 2003 session, was to lobby the legislature to allow local governments to accept matricula consulate identification cards.

And Stan and Metro was very supportive in terms of wanting folks here, regardless of their citizenship, to have identification, both for safety purposes, because we have individuals in our immigrant community who couldn't get a bank account because they had no identifications, and they then became known as walking ATMs. And that was something that I think was part of the impetus that lead to the creation of the HART program as well as the crime that you were referencing. So that was something that was very much appreciated.

I just wanted to note for the record that 15 years ago was a much different reality than what __ we've seen, especially in the last -- I think

Sheriff Keller served two terms, and Sheriff Young has even gone above and beyond, in our opinion, in the advancements that have been made in the last decade.

MR. JETT: I totally agree. I couldn't come

MR. JETT: I totally agree. I couldn't come here today without commenting on a recent immigration protest and the outstanding job that our agency has done. And just to tell you what our department philosophy is, our department philosophy is, as long as people protest peacefully, they will be allowed to do so, unobstructed.

I think you have seen that when other departments in the country, as recently as last week, made attempts to move people on the sidewalk and force them to adhere to rules that are really not enforceable when you have groups of that size, it leads to unrest, it leads to arrests, it leads to conflict, it leads to lawsuits, it leads to fights.

We have managed, I think, to date, probably eight different events, some with numbers as high as 8000 people. And we don't have a big department. Most of those are managed with officers numbering 100 and 150 officers. We have not had one complaint. We have only had a small number of arrests, and those people are people who were on the sidelines who were intoxicated trying to insight the lawful protestors who were marching down the street.

And we get a lot of comments from the community. Just recently at First Tuesday, which we hold once a month, I got a question, Why is the police department putting the protestors in a cocoon. Well, we do that because it minimizes the liability to this community. If the police department wasn't out there walking with the protestors, without exception, each time we go out, there is always at least two or three drunks who are out there with some kind of sign or some kind of banner or making comments in an attempt to insight the crowd, and we have had to step between those two groups several times during the recent protests.

But I am extremely proud of -- we deal with such a high number of people with a minimal amount of staffing available to manage those protests, and, to date, we haven't had an event that the press is even halfway interested in reporting.

DAVID SANCHEZ: And, if I might, that jogged my memory. I do have one complaint, and it's not directed at you. But there weren't -- I was out there

1 Monday, and I have been in large crowds. And, in my 2 opinion, I am not a crowd-counting expert, but there 3 was -- the estimates of 7 to 8000, I think were extremely low in terms of how many folks were out 4 there. 5 Well, that makes it even better MR. JETT: 7 Okay, so we're even doing a finer job. I agree, and that was -- one TONY SANCHEZ: 9 thing that jogged -- when I was talking about the 10 legislative actions a couple of sessions ago, bills 11 were passed with respect to efforts to examine racial 12 profiling issues statewide, and I can't recollect how 13 those ended up. Is that something --14 I can. AB500, as a result of MR. JETT: 15 AB500, our department, as I think all departments in 16 Clark County, were mandated to start making note of the 17 racial make-up of people they stopped on car stops or 18 had contact with. 19 And the result of our study was, after I 20 think it was a year was the time frame, was, we 21 disproportionately stopped African American males. 22 We secondarily did another study internally, 23 and this was related to handcuffing folks on car stops. We disproportionately handcuffed African American 24 25 males, and I believe Hispanics also.

Now, for me, that was certainly some good data to hear about because it told me that we had a problem that we needed to address.

Mr. Sanchez, has that problem totally gone away? I don't think so. Now, and I say that based on, here again, it goes back to the training mentality and the fact that I think it's 60 percent of all people that we hire in our agency come from another part of the country. And so many people come here from the Midwest and Iowa and back East who really haven't had a lot of interaction with minorities.

Now, the times when I go out on the street and interact with our young officers, I honestly believe that the issue is more a fear based on what they see on the 6:00 o'clock news, how minorities are perceived in the press.

One of the earlier speakers talked about, you know, if there is a shooting in the hood, that shooting is portrayed totally different on the 11:00 o'clock news than any other place. And normally they find the most inarticulate, inept person who witnessed the crime to conduct the interview with. And, you know, most of the time that person wasn't even sober enough to be a good witness.

Now, that perception is out there, and the reason I say that's a true perception is because we used to police in West Las Vegas differently than we police in other areas of town. And I would imagine that also applied to 28th Street which used to be predominantly inhabited by Hispanics.

And I noticed that there is a built-in fear that when you worked West Las Vegas you automatically assumed you were going to be hurt more so than if you worked Sahara and Paradise.

Now, that was based on minorities, we like to verbalize when you stop us. You know, the first thing we're going to ask you is, Why did you stop me, this is BS, this happens to me all the time. And a lot of officers, until they receive a proper amount of experience and training, they perceive that as a threat.

Now, police officers are taught from the time they enter the academy, always maintain control of the situation. So if I'm vocal, the officer thinks he or she has to escalate. If the person that's being stopped, if he raises that level, the cop raises the level.

I really think it's more a perspective of or an aspect of training more so than racism. And the reason I say that, you know, I make a habit of when I

1 am stopped by the police, I don't identify myself. 2 pretend I am the average citizen just to see how I'm 3 going to be treated. And I can tell you I recently 4 went to a -- it was a fatal accident that we had as a 5 result of a pursuit a couple of Sundays ago out in the Flamingo and Audrey. And I was stopped by a couple of 7 officers who they treated me badly. And what I mean by 8 that, the first comment to me was totally 9 disrespectful, Hey, can't you see the police line, 10 can't you see -- now, as soon as the guy saw the badge 11 hanging around my neck, attitude completely changed. 12 So I'm not going to sit here and tell you 13 that we don't have officers still working the street 14 who have not gotten the big picture. But I can tell

So I'm not going to sit here and tell you that we don't have officers still working the street who have not gotten the big picture. But I can tell you this, there is a lot of people in place, including first-line supervisors, that are doing their best to hold officers like that accountable, and if need be, remove them from our department.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other questions?

MS. KINDRED: Assistant Sheriff, could you talk a little bit about the training, the diversity training that these officers receive in more detail.

MR. JETT: Yes. When we first started doing diversity training, which is probably ten years ago, we used a Lieutenant and he went on to become a Deputy

Chief, and I think he has since retired, named Andre Barry who worked at the Reno PD. And, you know, one of the -- he came in, and he gave us -- it was mandated also which created a lot of animosity in the department. And he talked about different scenarios, but he talked more about cultural difference than boots on the ground, car stops, and our interaction with the public. And I don't really think it was that effective because as I sat there for five or six hours, we really didn't get to the root of the problem, to the meat of the subject which is race relations and law enforcement's contact with minorities.

So Sheriff Young, to his credit, decided to take it to another level when he hired Mr. Ramadan. And the focus of that training is to talk about issues that we really deal with on a day-to-day basis: Car stops; arrests; cultural differences; when I enter a person that happens to be Asian American or Hispanic American, when I enter their house, what are cultural differences that can get me in trouble if I don't understand those things.

I was just talking to Mr. Tanaka, who I have known ever since I was a rooky I think, and we were talking about he had recently gotten a comment from somebody in the community who appreciated the fact that one of our African American officers put on booties prior to entering an Asian American's home.

I mean, that kind of stuff would never have happened 20 years ago. That's the type of quality interaction training that we're getting now as opposed to years before. But I can tell you, I think the driving impetus has been people know that they can receive a suspension or even be terminated. We fired probably, I would say, probably three people, one a Sergeant, in the past five years for violating our diversity policy. So now people know that there is some teeth to the policy in addition to the training. So we got the carrot and the stick, and I don't think we could have seen the change that we have seen without both.

MS. GABATO: Thank you for coming today. I appreciate your comments. I have actually several comments and a question to ask you.

Since you have admitted that most of your new recruits and hires are inexperienced, immature 21-year olds who hasn't had exposure to diversity and the various parts of our community, has your department considered requiring college-level education for new recruits in order to enhance their policing and their interpretation of law and working with people?

A very good question. I can just MR. JETT: tell you I brought a stat from -- before I even go to that, our academy class of 1 of 2006 -- I forgot my glasses too as you can tell -- there is a total of 5 90 recruits that started this academy; 18.9 percent had either a BA or a BS; 21.8 percent had an associate's degree.

Now, this is one, this has been a big argument that Sheriff Young has had. As a matter of fact, about four months ago, Sheriff Young mandated that we require that any new recruits coming into the department have at least an associate's degree.

Now, after doing a comprehensive study of the number of people that we need to hire, looking at the folks that we have on our department, looking at the success rates as it correlates to their education, based on the number of people that we need to hire in the future, it's not realistic that we mandate that you have a college degree when you join our department.

And if you look around the country, which we did, most of the departments that mandate a college degree are small departments. San Jose, Harvard, Newport Beach, they are small, affluent departments that can afford to pick and choose the number of people that they hire, and the quality of people that they hire -- I shouldn't say the quality. They can mandate a college degree because they are only hiring probably between 2 and 15 people a year. Where just through attrition, our attrition numbers run between 65 and 75 officers a year.

So we could run a 90-person academy, and 75 of those people aren't going to be a plus because we just had 75 walk out the door through retirement, termination, deciding they don't like police work anymore.

So what we decided to do, and what we decided to do 15 years ago through negotiations with the bargaining units is, we will pay for your education once you come onto the department, and we also pay an incentive at the end of each fiscal year. It starts off with $375 for an associate's degree and it goes up based on the type of degree that you have.

Me, personally, I think there is no negative in that because what I want you to do is come here and learn how to be a police officer first. Now, do I value education? I certainly do, because I think the more you're educated, you get a more global perspective of the world around you. You're more open to ideas, better ideas. You're more open to change. And I can say that from experience.

You know, the kids that come to us today, they're used to playing video games, and they are more open to education. It's just that our department is not in a position of where we can mandate it. But I don't see that as negative. I see that most cops that come here, they want to go to Community College, if for no other reason than just to get that extra $375 a year. And, at the same time, now I have got a person who is got some training behind him in addition to a formal education.

MS. GABATO: Okay. My second question is regarding your diversity training. About 10, 12 years ago, Rozita and I were involved with Metro because we had a shooting of a mentally ill Asian Pacific. And we, at the time, called for the Citizen Review Board -- Civilian Citizen Review Board which we have now.

And, at that time, there was a -- Sheriff Keller then had the diversity training in which case they would invite members of the Asian Pacific sector to be involved in curriculum development with diversity training and to be in the classroom talking about our culture.

Is that still on-going or has that changed?

MR. JETT: No. As a matter of fact,

Sheriff Keller and Undersheriff Gillespy meet once a month with the Multi-cultural Committee, and Dean is a member of that committee. And any topics related to concerns of the community are relayed to the Sheriff and the Undersheriff during those meetings. And I can guarantee you, the next day at briefing, we hear about the concerns of the community, and we as executive staff are mandated to go out and start resolving those issues.

We are certainty open to any changes in the curriculum in our academy. Dean just recently came to me addressing a problem that I talked about earlier, our number one IAB complaint is interaction with the public. And it was just reinforced by the complaint that Dean brought forward.

Now, what are we doing with that? Already, we have had meetings with our academy staff to implement more role playing and more training when it comes to interaction with the public. And then, just as simple as this, and one of our traffic Captains came up with this, a cheat card that teaches our cops when they approach a car, the first things you should do. And the first thing is a greeting, the second thing is identify yourself, the third thing is tell the person why they are being stopped. If we did that simple one act it would eliminate probably 50 percent of the

1 complaints that our agency receives, that simple one 2 act. 3 Now, did that cost our department, our 4 agency, a lot of money? It most certainly didn't, and 5 we are just going to add that to our training 6 curriculum, have some cards printed up, implement the 7 training. And I am confident we're going to see some 8 change in the numbers of those types of complaints. 9 MS. GABATO: I would just bring up a comment 10 since I sit on this Committee and the people in our 11 Asian Pacific Committee know that some of the comments 12 that have been brought to me is that within our 13 community at least when there is a traffic violation or 14 a traffic -- between two participants, white or 15 Caucasian or Asian Pacific, the cops necessarily talk 16 to the Caucasian first, and then disregard the comments 17 of the Asian Pacific involved in that. So I just 18 wanted to make that as a comment. 19 The my third question is that -- I forgot. 20 I had a senior moment. 21 You mentioned, and I think it's a very -- you 22 know, like Tony said about the HART project that is 23 Do necessarily geared towards the Hispanic population. 24 you have any such project or on-going thought about 25 making that a part of the other ethnic sectors, like

1 the Asian Pacific that comprises about 6 to 8 percent 2 of the population? 3 Well, the reason why we have MR. JETT: 4 department-wide HART programs is because, you know, 5 everybody knows that our Hispanic population, depending 6 on which number you look at, is between 24 and 33, 7 34 percent of make-up in our community. 8 Now, what we do is we break down each 9 substation depending on demographics of that 10 substation, we customize programs for that substation. 11 So Southwest station, which predominantly polices the 12 area of Spring Mountain, where there is numerous Asian 13 businesses, the apartment complexes are heavily 14 inhabited by Asian Pacific people, our day shift 15 Lieutenant, Lieutenant Ben Kim, he has become known as 16 the mayor of Spring Mountain because he has such a 17 close relationship with the community there. 18 So the same with Bolden Area Command. 19 put key personnel in those positions as Captains and 20 Lieutenants who understand the culture of the 21 community, who go out and actively reach out and 22 establish long-term relationship, and to try to make 23 real change with the people that we police. 24 And you know what? We're doing this -- a lot 25 of it -- I don't want you to think we're just good guys. We're doing a lot of this because we're selfish, and we realize we have limited resources, and the best utilization of our resources is to get the community involved as partners with us. We don't want that just to be a line on the side of our cars. We truly want to be partners with the community because we realize we're 2200 badge carriers of a population of 1.6, and fluid population of 40 million a year. We need help from the community.

So any time you have an issue anywhere in this community, all you have to do is pick up the phone and call that Area Captain, and your concerns will be addressed. And I mean long-term. If you see a place where we are falling down or we can improve, each person that's commanding a substation is the type of person I just described or they wouldn't be there.

MS. GABATO: Hopefully, my last question.

Regarding the police shootings that have been in the news from time to time, what's your statistics like, statistics for those? Is it decreasing? Is it increasing?

MR. JETT: I'm pretty sure -- well, to date,
I think we have had nine officer involved shootings, and we are on pace with last year. But our population has increased. And we have seen a steady decline in fatal shootings for the past years. I can send you guys those statistics also when I send the other information.

But, you know, the point I made earlier, what's really important -- you know, at one point in Las Vegas, we were the number one capture spot for bad guys profiled on America's Most Wanted.

So the point I'm trying to make is, there is always going to be people that come here that need to be killed. That's just a fact of police work. That's a fact of society. And I don't mean that to sound harsh, and I don't mean to sound insensitive. But there is, you know, there is an element of society who when you tell them to put their hands behind their back, they pull out a gun and try to kill you.

What's more important than the number of declined in police fatal shootings is a quality of police shootings. And that's what I'm talking about when, you know, the guy pulled out a knife, he pulled out a pager but I thought it was a gun, I shot him in the back because, you know, he was running towards some citizens.

Those are the type of shootings that I'm concerned about, or, I should say, that I pay particular attention to. When I hear about a shooting when I get a call at 3:00 o'clock in the morning, I get up and talk to my Deputy Chief of Detectives, and he tells me that the bad guy fired a shot at us, and we shot and killed him or a suspect pulled a gun, I get back in my bed and go to sleep. Because I've been here long enough to have experienced shootings of just what I described, there was a car chase, the guy got up and ran, went down a dark alley, I thought he pulled a gun, but where is the gun, can't find it.

I think it's more important for a police organization to minimize and eradicate those types of shootings. Not that I'm not concerned about all shootings, but here again, I go back to the point I just made, that a lot of bad guys come to Las Vegas. And society is made up of people who they don't put their hands behind their back. They actively resist.

You know, we have had two examples this year. As soon as our Sergeant Henry Prendes walked up to the door, the bad guy shot him from upstairs. A week later, we have a guy that fires over 40 rounds at us because he knew he was going to be violating and going back to prison because he was wanted for six felony warrants.

So that's the type of person that I'm talking about when I say that there is some people who just insist on being kill.

Now, we got a lot of programs in places to avoid that. We have -- Sheriff Young created the CIT program which is a crisis intervention program where we train officers in patrol if we're dealing with a person who has a mental illness or is under the influence. The CIT officer -- and we stole this program from Memphis. Memphis had this program for probably since the 1980s. Now we have a cop who goes there who is trained in addressing and interacting with people who have a mental illness, de-escalates the situation. That has drastically reduced the number of officer involved shootings that we have, and we have at least two officers on each squad in patrol trained with those type of tactics.

MS. GABATO: Okay. Thank you. The other thing -- the last one. I'm sorry.

You know, how is your relationship with -- I know these kinds of things are reviewed by Internal Affairs and the Civilian Police Review Board, I suppose. How is that working out? I sometimes read in the paper diverging comments about your relationship with the Citizen's Review Board. Can you just comment on that?

MR. JETT: You bet. I would be happy to.

1 That's the Review Journal's perspective. 2 MS. GABATO: Yes? 3 MR. JETT: Yes, it is. I can tell you, we 4 have the best relationship we have ever had with an 5 oversight committee in the history of our department. 6 Deputy Chief Mike Ault who heads up Internal Affairs 7 meets on a bi-weekly basis with Andrea Beckman who 8 heads up the Civilian Review Board. In the -- I think 9 the Civilian Review Board had been in place for 10 five years or longer -- we have only had two cases, out of all the cases that Internal Affairs investigates 11 12 each year, overturned and challenged by the Civilian 13 Review Board. 14 We provide training for their oversight 15 committees. We meet on a quarterly basis with the 16 actual oversight and review committees that determine 17 which cases need to be investigated by the Civilian 18 Review Board. 19 So I think we have an excellent relationship 20 with the Civilian Review Board. And I would ask you to 21 call Andrea and ask her for yourself because I'm 22 confident she's going to tell you the same thing I'm 23 telling you today. 24 MS. GABATO: Thank you.

Thank you. We are running a

2	Jett, we really appreciate your comments here. Thank

4	direct all further information to the Western Regional
5	Office.
6	At this point, let's take about a five-minute
7	break, and allow our court reporter to relax for a
8	minute while we get the next panelists set up.
9	(Short recess)
10	DAVID SANCHEZ: The meeting of the Nevada
11	State Advisory Committee to the United States
12	Commission on Civil Rights is reconvened.
13	This is Panel No. 3, and we have with us
14	Rozita Lee, Wayne Tanaka, and Dr. Rene Nora. And, at
15	this point, you can choose which one of you will go,
16	but we would like you to introduce yourself and your
17	organization, if any, and what your role is within that
18	organization.
19	Let's start with Rozita first.
20	MS. LEE: Thank you. My name is Rozita Lee,
21	and I am the Chair for the National Federation of
22	Filipino American Associations, Nevada Chapter in
23	Region 11 which encompasses Nevada, Arizona, and Utah.
24	I'm also on the board of the Organization of 25	Chinese Americans, on the Advisory Board, and also with the Las Vegas Hawaiian Civic Club, and with the Asian Chamber. I have been here since 1979 very much involved with the Asian Pacific American community.

Today, we all know how the population has grown as far as the Asian Pacific American community, and I have given you some statistics for you to look at, and this was prepared actually by the VERA Justice Department. And they had taken all of this information from the 2004 census. And in about two months, the Asian American Justice Center will be having a meeting here where we will be distributing our book which is on the demographics of the Asian Pacific American community in Las Vegas, as well in four other states, which I would like to invite all of you to attend when it happens.

According the census bureau, there are about 147,000 Asian Pacific Islanders here in Clark County of which 130,000 are Asian Americans and more than 17,000 are Pacific Islanders. Now, these numbers are small. And we say that because we are in the community, we have a lot of functions. And we know that these numbers are small simply because when the census bureau person goes to a home, they did not take all of the numbers that are actually living in that home. And we have found that out because they do not divulge. A lot of Asian Pacific Islanders do not let the census takers know the exact count in each household.

But these are good numbers for us to look at,

and I also want to point out that the Filipinos comprise the largest of the Asian American ethnic group in Clark County, 46 percent of the Asian American population here in Clark County.

The next largest are Chinese, then Japanese, Korean, Asian Indian, then Vietnamese. Native Hawaiians are the largest Pacific Islander group followed by Guamanian and Samoans.

We all know that many, many people from Hawaii have moved here, but they are not all native Hawaiians. They are of many different ethnic groups.
There are just a few who are actually native Hawaiians.
I was born in Hawaii but I am of Filipino ancestry, so I would not be counted as a Hawaiian. But they are counting us as those who have moved here from Hawaii.

One year we did a study by going to the DMV to get a count of how many people had changed their licenses from Hawaii to Nevada, and we found that there were at least 50,000 at that time, but this also included the military. So, yes, there is a huge contingency of people who have moved here from Hawaii and also from California.

1 Throughout the country, Nevada has the fastest growing Asian American group and the second 2 fastest growing Pacific Islander population from 1990 to 2000, and the growth has continued from 2000 to 4 2004. And it's interesting to note, that the Filipino 5 population grew by 300 percent during this period. 6 And with the influx of the Asian Pacific 7 Islander group that has come here to Nevada, there are 8 9 There are challenges not only for the challenges. 10 groups but also for the government agencies. 11 And some of the issues that we are concerned with 12 The immigration, law enforcement, voting rights, 13 education, health and welfare. 14 15

It was interesting to listen to our former speaker from the Metro Department talking about law enforcement and about the diversity program that they have supposedly put in place. I have been involved in speaking to the cadets at several of the meetings but that has stopped. They no longer ask the leaders of the community to be part of it. They have instead hired, I believe, it was Mujahid to take care of this, and which I think is sad if they don't include the leadership and if they don't have a longer period of training which I feel that they need to do.

Now, as far as law enforcement, Belen told you about the time that we had this problem with one of our Filipino young men who had some mental problems and came running out of his house yelling and screaming and had two steak knives in his hands, and he was shot to death by 3 policemen who were 6-foot 5 or more, and this young man was 5-foot 3 or 4.

We were appalled at what had happened, and so we met the Sheriff. And, at that time, it was Sheriff Keller. And I do have to let you know, and I wish that he were here, we were shocked when we sat with Sheriff Keller at a meeting, when he sat down and we were seated like you are, and his opening statement to us, the Asian Pacific, specifically, the Filipino group was, I will not apologize for my officers killing Mr. Wihi. Now, how do you think that made us feel?

That was abominable for him to make a statement, an opening statement, to a group of concerned citizens. And it still bothers me a lot, and I bring this up because I think that there should be better training within the police department. And I think that was brought up, that they are doing that now, and I am glad that they are making some changes.

We have not met with Sheriff Keller as a group as yet. Although Sheriff Keller did come to our Getting to Know the Candidates night because NAFA which is the umbrella group for the Filipino community does 2 hold a night before election to get to know -- 3

               DAVID SANCHEZ: Rozita, you mean
4
     Sheriff Young?
5
               MS. LEE: No. It was Sheriff Keller who said 6
     that to us.
7
               DAVID SANCHEZ: But are you meeting with 8
     Sheriff Young at this point?
9
               MS. LEE: We had not.
                                      I'm sorry. We should,
10 we should, and we should be calling. In fact, that was 11 one of the things that we plan to do. And you're going 12 to please have to forgive me because I do have senior 13 moments too, more so than Belen.
14
               But that's one thing about law enforcement.
15
               MS. GABATO:
                            Thank you, Rozita.
16
               MS. LEE: I know you admit it.
17
               Another thing that we have a concern about is 18 voting issues, voting rights, and this is very 19 important to us. And I know that right now there are 20 meetings, there are seminars being held about the 21 discussion of the voting rights. This is being done 22 throughout the different states.
23
               Here, in Las Vegas, I have been very much 24 involved with getting out the vote and voter education 25 and voter mobilization, and, specifically, among the

1 Asian Pacific American groups. 2 And I have found that many a time, it's 3 that -- the reason that people don't go out to vote, 4 even though they are eligible to vote, they are 5 citizens, they have the right to vote, is because at 6 one time, they were intimidated. And we're trying to 7 hold education workshops that this has got to stop here 8 in Las Vegas. 9 But, you know, intimidation is a tactic that 10 is used, and, unfortunately, it is being used by the parties. And so we can't really blame the agency 11 12 itself, those who are like, you know, in our Clark 13 County registration office. 14 But I do want to let you know about one 15 experience where we wanted to purchase lists, but 16 because we wanted to purchase lists of the Asian 17 American community that were actually registered to 18 vote, I feel very strongly that there was some kind of 19 prejudice against us because they made it very 20 difficult for us to make those purchases. So that 21 needs to be, I think, addressed. 22 Regarding the education --23 DAVID SANCHEZ: Question, please. 24 TONY SANCHEZ: I'm interested in how -- do they keep lists like that? Or how do you -- you would request a list of Asian Americans in Clark County?

1
2 do they keep that record?
                                Is it by a voluntarily
3 disclosure by the voter when they register? Because you can't do it by surname.
5
               MS. LEE:
                         I know.
                                  It's very difficult to do
     it by surname, but in some instances, we have had to do 7
           We were able to retrieve from the files, and I 8 don't know the exact program that was used, but we do 9 have a list, in fact, several lists now, of Asian 10 names.
             We couldn't do it with the Filipinos because 11 Filipino and Hispanic names are so similar.
12
               TONY SANCHEZ: And that's why I was asking, 13 because our efforts in the past, we have found we can't 14 even come close.
15
               MS. LEE:
                         Right.
                                 That segment was difficult 16 to do, but the Chis and the Kims and the Lees and -- of 17 course, Lee is difficult also. I'm a Lee, but there 18 are, you know, different kinds of Lees. But we were 19
     able to do a very good list that was pulled up for us.
20
     And so we appreciated that, but it wasn't done by Clark 21
              It was done by a private firm.
22
               TONY SANCHEZ: You had to pay for it?
23
               MS. LEE: Yes, we had to pay for it. So we 24 were able to do that to get people out to vote.
25
               I want to also tell you about the fact that most of the problems with these issues, especially with Metro, are created primarily because of the lack of understanding of culture, and I want to cite one particular case.

A Filipino woman was put in jail because she was allegedly, she allegedly staged her own assault and robbery at the store where she worked. She was actually unconscious and she was revived, but the police put her in jail stating that she was the one that just staged the whole thing, and the reason for that was because they found money in her shoes. But it is a cultural thing for people to carry money in their shoes in the Philippines.

And they did not -- and she kept trying to explain this to them, that the money that she had in her shoes was her rent money, and she didn't want to put it in the locker at the store because in the past, there were people, you know, pilfering from lockers. And yet, she was put in jail. And it had to take an attorney to get her out of jail. And it was simply because of the lack of cultural understanding. And that I think needs to be worked on.

The police, we do have some issues about the police. And I am proud to say that actually it was the Filipino community that really wanted police accountability. We had a committee working, we even did studies of different states of police review board, and then we finally got the Citizen's Review Board on board.

But do you know something? Not one of us was asked to be on the board. And I don't know if it was because there were afraid of us or what. But not one of us was asked or appointed to be on the board, and yet we were the ones that instigated it and got it started and made them aware of it.

Regarding education, I do want to cite a case where there definitely needs to be some improvement with the education department as far as management, as far as teachers, and understanding Filipinos and understanding Asian Pacific Americans.

In one particular case, I was called on to assist where a Filipino student had moved here from the Philippines but was placed in a lower grade. She was actually -- she had a status of an eighth grader, but she was placed in fifth grade here in the U.S.

And when I asked why that was done, and the superintendent at that time -- I forgot the real title of that person, I'm sorry -- said it was because the standards of the Philippines is different from the standards of the U.S. And that really riled me because

1 we have an outstanding education system in the 2 Philippines. 3 And I said, Have them take the test, and then 4 you can tell just today, this week, how they will 5 place. Well, they placed -- they took the tests that 6 were administered, and they placed very high. 7 were excellent. 8 But you see again, there is that perception 9 that because we are from a third-world country that our 10 education is not as good as the education here in 11 America. 12 TONY SANCHEZ: Would you comment on the 13 recent efforts by the School District to recruit 14 teachers from the Philippines? 15 MS. LEE: I was just going to get to that. 16 More specifically, what we DAVID SANCHEZ: 17 would like to hear is the state statute says that 18 teachers must be citizens, and if they aren't recruited 19 under these set of circumstances, they can only remain 20 on for three years. What is the Filipino community 21 going to do with that when three years comes up? 22 MS. LEE: Yes, thank you. We were very much 23 involved in assisting with these 51 teachers who were 24 brought here. And I spoke with Ms. Sheckoway who was 25 with that recruiting team and also with Ms. Guiterrez, Lena, who is head. And we had a meeting with them.

Because there was very -- in our opinion, there was very little preparation that was made for these teachers. In other words, there were set up to fail if they were to come here because of the lack of training that they had in the Philippines. Although they said they spent weeks and weeks with them before they came. I don't know what kind of training they had.

But these teachers are -- they are well qualified. They are not citizens. They know that they are going to have to go back after three years. We know that. We helped them with housing because housing was not prepared for them.

In one instance, they got off the plane.

There were seven people that had nowhere to go. Where was the School District? It was a good thing that we were there and took care of them and made sure that there was a place for them. And yet the School District said, Oh, everything was set. But it was not because we had to take care of them, and we knew it was not set.

As far as -- and they are very happy to be here. They want to earn money. They want to be able to help their families back home, like most immigrants

1 And they're trying really hard to assimilate with do. 2 the community here. 3 Now, how can a 5-foot 1 slim girl, teacher, 4 work with a group of 40 in a class all male, all 5 African American? One case. And do you know that one of the students through a book at her and hit her in 7 the head? And what was done? We brought that up with 8 the School District. Oh, we're terribly sorry it 9 happened, and that person was suspended. Well, I 10 mean -- the student was -- what is the term that they 11 use? He was ejected out of school? 12 DAVID SANCHEZ: Expelled. 13 MS. LEE: Expelled. Senior moment again. 14 But in things like this, when you are going 15 to bring in foreign teachers, please give them some 16 kind of heads-up as to what to expect when they get 17 here. 18 We have special education teachers. 19 math teachers. We have science teachers. All well, 20 well equipped, ready to go with their classes here. 21 The special education teachers have different 22 kinds of special ed students in the Philippines. 23 were not aware of what to expect here in Las Vegas. 24 But through tears, through determination, they are 25 still there teaching in the classroom, and they will

1 continue to do that until their time is up. 2 Now, the contract is on a year-to-year basis. 3 It's not guaranteed that you will be here for three years. So at the end of the year, there will be 4 evaluations. 5 Now, as far as the health and welfare, we 7 have -- oh, I have many, many examples also about 8 employment. But time is short so, I'm going to give it 9 now to Dr. Nora who is going to talk about the health 10 and welfare of the Asian Pacific Americans. 11 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. Dr. Nora would 12 you introduce yourself for the record. 13 My name is Dr. Rene Nora. MS. NORA: 14 Vice Chair of the National Federation of Filipino 15 American Associations. I'm also a member of the 16 Governor's Commission on Mental Health and 17 Developmental Services, and a Clinical Professor of 18 Psychiatry at the University of Nevada School of 19 Medicine. 20 I am glad that I am following Rozita's 21 presentation, and I do not have to saddle you with 22 statistics and demographics, but I think it's important 23 when she highlighted that the Filipino Americans in 24 fact represent a very rapidly growing population.

the following issues with recommendations and implications maybe for action items. I believe you have my handout, but let me go over this. I have only one page, three of them, four of them.

The first one, as with most minorities of issue is stigma, and it runs across the board whether you're talking about relationships with the police, with health care professionals, with business people.

One is that all Asian Americans are the same. Non-Asians frequently have difficulty telling Asian Americans apart, whether they are Filipino, Koreans, Chinese, Japanese, Indonesians and so forth. The three of us sit here and very easily -- I mean, you could probably mistake Wayne Tanaka as Filipino. He looks Filipino to me. And I've been mistaken for Japanese at times too, so that's one issue.

Stigma is still quite an issue. There are two primary stereotypes that continue to affect this group.

Keep in mind, that there are actually 43 ethnic groups, and we speak over a hundred different languages and dialects.

The second stereotype is that all Asian

Americans are foreigners, and being a foreigner, you know, has rather some negative connotations when you are in this country. Although more than half of all

Asians in the U.S. were born outside the U.S., many Asian American families have been in this country for several generations, and over half of this population were born in this country.

To understand this diverse group would require knowledge of the reasons why they came here, some are refugees, some are not. The cohort of immigration, the regions of the origin, educational level, their economic status, language, family network and values, belief and expectations.

I, myself, have had this experience. I have been here for over 40 years. I have three children all born here. But, fortunately, not too many, but I can tell you that there were very unhappy moments when we were also subjected to some degree of these difficulties.

When we are first met in the professional area or field, people assume that we don't speak English; that's number one. Number two, that if we do, we may have limited expertise in terms of understanding and so on and so forth. And once we introduce ourselves, I am Dr. Rene Nora, immediately, of course, the whole attitude changes. But if I do not go out of my way to say that, then there is quite a bit of some barriers.

My children often come back and tell me about this when it happens in school. Fortunately, they all survived. My son is a surgeon, Chief of Surgery in a big hospital in California. My daughter is the current Judge, one of the first Asian female judges in the state. So I guess we are the more fortunate ones, but there are many others who are not as fortunate.

As I said, this has implications on how business employers, employees, healthcare professions, social services staff, police and authority figures, and especially legislators and those involved in making major decisions that affect the personal and professional lives of Asian Americans.

I think there is still quite a bit in terms of education, not only on cultural competency but sensitivity in terms of understanding this population.

I also would like to give an example with the police. Even when they apprehend an Asian American, if you did not know that Asian Americans tend to smile quite a bit when they are very anxious or very uncomfortable or very fearful or that they have limited eye contact, because in our country, the old timers, it is disrespectful to really pursue and keep on having a direct eye contact.

So if you're a policeman who engages in a situation like that, you would think that either somebody is bazaar or making a mockery or because they are not looking at you, they are being devious. And so it sets the tone already for a negative relationship. So how will they know that, unless they really went to again some training and background? That this is, in fact, not a character disorder but simply the cultural aspect.

I will move on to mental health needs.

Research and surveys consistently indicate that Filipino Americans as well as Asian Americans tend to underutilize mental health services. This is not just due to the stigma of being mentally ill, which is even worse in our origin, country of origin. It's bad enough here, but when you're -- some of our country of origin mental illness is even more of a stigma.

But here I think it is also the lack of information and knowledge of resources for treatment, counseling support, lack of care providers who speak the language or who are competent and sensitive to deal with their problems and concerns.

So the last issue about mental health, not really the last, but because I am (inaudible) I tend to look at red alerts, and I am talking about suicide. In the last CDC report, which is always a few years behind because that's how they do it, Asian Americans in Nevada have a rate of 7.2 per 100,000 population. What is the meaning of that? That is actually a much higher rate than the national average for Asian Americans in the U.S. which is 5.3. And Assistant Sheriff Jett mentioned that our statistics for fatal injuries due to homicide and also legal intervention is improving, but numbers still do not really reflect that. For the Asian Americans, the rate of fatalities or injuries is 8.8, compared -- and I'm talking about in Nevada -- compared to 3.4. That's almost double for the figures of Asian Americans in the United States.

Now, in terms of the total health care, and I'm only thinking about some time constraints, I do not have the numbers for the total uninsured and those who have no insurance benefits, but I suspect that is quite a number. It's just that the Asian American group is sometimes called the invisible minority because they don't complain too much. They may not be so aggressive in seeking welfare or social services; and, therefore, they just go on through life without having these benefits or paying attention to them.

Now, the third area of concern is lack of efficient and accurate surveillance systems to track trends in rates of current health, social economic, and or provide data for support activities and initiatives or to identify protective factors or target high-risk special population for intervention.

Yesterday, I Googled Filipino Americans, and you will get figures, you know, for the national. But if you want to plan for programs, if you want to plan for support systems, for something that is local, and all of you who sit there know that Las Vegas, for example, is just a very unusual animal. It cannot be like any other state, so those that are local statistics and unique or specific to us should really be available. And because we do not have those, sometimes people say, I don't think you have a problem. And we have no hard data to actually counteract that.

Well, the last issue is not really an issue. There are many more, but I am just highlighting those Rozita already had discussed and that has to do with the fact that our Filipino American community generally supports a comprehensive immigration reform and legislation that will provide opportunities for families to remain together in the U.S. and to decrease the huge backlog in the availability of family-based visas.

Some of the input that I have from my professional group is that all the attention is the illegal immigrants. Very little attention to those who are legal immigrants who are here and are waiting 25 years to still get their citizenship. And so because of their separation from their families and so on, there are many issues that go with that. So all they're saying is that when you go and discuss these things on the table, take into consideration that group who are not as vocal or not as visible.

So, in conclusion, this is not an original thought, but I think -- imagine if even for one day, like, let's say, today all of the Filipino Americans disappeared in the state of Nevada. Can you imagine how the operations of the casinos, the hospitals, hospitals like Sunrise and UMC and so on, the other agencies will be operating? I think they will operate, but certainly they will be significantly impacted or compromised.

So we are saying that we have existing supports, we have wonderful things, but quite a long way yet to where we should be. We want to pursue freedom, opportunity, and justice just like everybody else. But, as I said, one of the greatest gifts, I think, is having a Commission like this that actually will sort of look into the situations and make

1 recommendations. So thank you for listening. 2 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you, Dr. Nora. I would 3 like to ask two questions. But first, there was a film 4 produced by an independent film maker called a Day 5 Without a Mexican, so we could certainly appreciate 6 what would happen to any minority if they were suddenly 7 to disappear from the community and the impact that 8 would have. 9 I would like you to follow up on your 10 comment, No. 4, on your handout that the Filipino 11 community supports comprehensive immigration reform. 12 Is there a specific bill or plan that the Filipino 13 community would endorse in terms of immigration reform? 14 MS. NORA: Yes, actually we have our legal 15 I am not the expert on that. But we do have 16 a paper prepared in terms of the details of that and 17 also the comparison of the different bills so if you --18 DAVID SANCHEZ: Could you provide that to our 19 Western Regional Office? 20 MS. NORA: Yes, I will send that to 21 Mr. Pilla. 22 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other questions? 23 MS. GABATO: Rozita, you mentioned about 24 voter intimidation, that a lot of Asian Americans don't 25 vote because they fear or are intimidated when they do

1 Do you know if that is -- if you have an example vote. 2 of the kind of intimidation that they experience when 3 they try to vote? 4 MS. LEE: Yes. We have had some instances, 5 and it's been noted, that some people have gone to a 6 polling place, and as they approach the polling place, 7 they are told that this is not a place for them to come 8 to vote, but the person had insisted on going in. 9 when that person went in to vote, there was no record 10 of her name in that particular place, and they were 11 scrutinized, Give me your ID, and they were talked to 12 in such a way that the person just decided, forget 13 I'm just not going to vote. 14 It's because of the way they were treated. 15 Yes, there is documentation. 16 MS. GABATO: Thank you. 17 MS. NORA: So, if I may have the last word. 18 We talk about education, competencies, sensitivity. 19 would hope that any prevention program would always 20 include some aspect of the care of Asian Americans. 21 That's what I'm asking. 22 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. For the record, I 23 would like to make a comment. Rozita Lee, 24 Doris Femenella, and I have at one time appeared before 25 the Henderson Police Department rooky academy and have Americans, while preserving cultural heritage and values. That's preprinted material from the Japanese American Citizens League.

So how do we exist here in Las Vegas?
Thirty-two years ago, I, and eight other individuals of Japanese American ancestry, chartered this chapter, the Las Vegas chapter, one of the 112 chapters in the United States. Our location currently is at 4030 Shift Drive in the Asian Pacific Center. We have concentrated on developing a culture that (inaudible) within this greater community. Our youth are represented often in many, many events throughout the city as the Taiko drummers.

We also provide senior citizens who are doing cultural dances, especially during the Asian Pacific month celebrations. We provide guest speakers to elementary schools to talk about what it means to grow up Japanese American.

We also introduced 12 years ago, Japanese language in the high schools. Clark County High School was the first Japanese language program in the state of Nevada. Currently, we have nine high schools, and by next year, hopefully ten high schools that will offer Japanese language curriculum.

We also developed 12 years ago, a Japanese language Saturday school called the Las Vegas (inaudible). It is a school for 115 students of every race, creed, and color you can imagine. And they are learning Japanese on Saturday. Japanese as a language is now taught at Community College of Southern Nevada and at UNLV.

Because of our background in civil rights and human rights, our concentration recently has been in the areas of hate crime. We also are looking at job discrimination, not only in the private sector, but also in the public sector.

In recent investigations, we have been aware that a local hotel and a local club had a situation where a customer with 12 other guests from California went into a local restaurant. A drink was spilled in their lap, and when she stood up, her — she bumped into the tray that the drink carrier was carrying. She didn't think much about it, except that her dress was now covered with a drink. But a security officer from that hotel then came and told them they had to leave. And in referencing when she was upset about her clothing and what had happened, was referred to as Geisha girl and told to leave.

In our investigation, we are currently working with the hotel property as well as the bar property because the bar property is owned by a different person than the major hotel.

A simple matter like this you would think would be easily resolved with a cleaning bill and return of their cover charge, but that has not transpired. And the refusal to give us the name of the identity of the security officer, calling it a personnel issue.

Sometimes we also investigate when four honor society high school kids, who happened to be dressed in kakis and a wife-beater undershirt driving a low-rider Civic with megaphone pipes, are taken out of their car and put up against the cars.

And as Dr. Nora indicated, the children are raised not to give solid eye contact. It's disrespectful, and not to talk back to law enforcement people. And yet when that happens, they are told, Answer me, what, no speak English. And then pulled out of their cars and put up against the cars.

And when the kids who have their hands on the hot hood of the car take their hands off, are slammed down hard and told, Get yourself down, I told you not to move, well, those things do get resolved. Metro is responsive, but it's unfortunate because the kinds of things that are told to us from our especially non-English speaking or not fluent English speaking constituents is that when the officer comes up to investigate a car accident, that the person the officer talks to is the one that speaks English best. And then the person who was actually wronged in the accident receives a citation and told to appear and bring an English-speaking lawyer.

Those are the kinds of things that we hear about and slowly work through the organization to resolve the issues. Metro, to their credit, is no longer hesitant in responding to those kinds of questions, and I know are working in their training to make sure that those kinds of incidents do not occur.

I think earlier when I heard Rod Jett describe the kinds of emphasis they are placing in their training, especially for the young officers, I believe that emphasis is being made. But like teaching, we know that you can teach. That doesn't mean somebody learned. That the teaching/learning process is separate. There is a responsibility for presentation of that teaching lesson to be at its very best. But it's also a part of the learner's responsibility to make sure that what was taught is actually learned and practiced.

We currently work with several organizations in our city. We work with the Nevada Consulate Corp.

As we know, the Consulate Corp has representatives, whether they're European or Asian or of any foreign country of citizens who now live here. And Gail Anderson, our contact with the Governor's office, makes sure that we are well informed with the police departments.

In fact, we recently had a meeting with Doug Gillespy and Sheriff Young over some reported concerns whether they were German tourists or French tourists or Japanese tourists because of the kinds of experiences that they have had.

We also work the Japan America Society of Nevada, specifically with workers who are here as J-1 visa holders or with S-1, the student visa, where they have no business being workers because that's not how they enter the country. And then there are times when widowed people who never became American citizens but whose husbands were military and have now passed away.
We find that there may be people living in America for ten years undetected and being paid wages under the table. And yet when it's time for benefits or insurance, those go unclaimed because they don't think that disclosure is of benefit to them.

We also are working with the Organization of Chinese Americans. Rozita referred to them as OCA.

Rozita and I are both advisors to the OCA, and we work along the lines of human and civil rights, hate crimes, job discrimination, and what we call the GOTV, get out the vote.

We also work in the Asian Chamber of Commerce in business and economic development. We are proud to say that there are currently 43 Japanese corporations now operating in the state of Nevada bring jobs and opportunities, and, of course, income to Nevadans.

We also concentrate on building coalitions for networking so that Asian businesses do not just stick with Asian business owners. That they are willing to go beyond that. And the recent movement of the Latin Chamber, the Urban Chamber, and the Asian Chamber to combine the chambers in luncheons and meetings is a step in the right direction for coalition building. I think the final push will be when they feel welcome enough to go on to the Las Vegas Chamber of Commerce as well and pass out their business cards there. One person simply said, Well, but if I go, will I be as welcomed. I said, I can't answer that, why don't you go to their meetings.

Connecting businesses and creating further opportunities for jobs for Nevadans is a belief we also have, and we practice very hard in economic development. We also work with Metro Police Department to let them know that we provide, not only the attorneys with level four interpreter but we are also willing to provide Metropolitan Police Department with what they call the cheat cards on how to greet citizens of Japanese ancestry. You know that in the morning it's "Ohio gozaimasa" but during the evening it's "konban wa". They seem to get the "Ohio" part because a state is named after that.

But we are also working with them to clarify this profiling. I mentioned that our four honor society kids that got pulled over curbside and got pretty rough treatment, that was a pull-over strictly because of profiling. They looked the part. And now, the reverse of this is, we pulled those kids aside and said, What's the matter with you, you look like you shouldn't be doing anything near the Strip, when you don't answer properly -- when you know they were articulate honor society inductees, they should have easily revealed that they could speak English, but I think their hesitancy was to present their case when all that yelling was going on.

We also provide attorney services after arrest. As well you know, by the time the arrest has happened and they have been cuffed and booked, we often get calls about, Do you know a good attorney. And if they're Japanese speakers, of course, we provide attorneys who have staffs that speak Japanese or they speak Japanese.

We also have members from JCL from the Sheriff's Recruitment Council because we think that's an important step in the right direction.

The recruitment of teachers, we don't necessarily concentrate on Japanese Americans, but Rozita made reference to the fact that many Filipinos are being brought here to teach in Clark County School District schools. Our concern was that they never met with the Filipino community before initiating a headhunter group who charged these teachers money to come and teach in America. When, in fact, Belen and Rozita and -- well, I could mention a ton of other people, including CCSD employees, who all have families and contacts with colleges and universities back home.

It would have cost nothing more than for these community members to be flown to the Philippines. And I dare that they would probably have paid half the cost to go there and do the recruitment. But to turn it over to a headhunter group and then have these speakers who are already in profound cultural shock in some instances to come here and have to give part of their paychecks to a headhunter group is, I think, beyond the pay off.

And then to turn to the Filipino community after that and say we can help them find housing, just rude and insensitive. And I know you know that I really love our School District, but the School District is not a person. People run departments. The sensitivity starts with people, and everything that we do in the school business is based on relationships, and that is not the way to endear a community or to hold on to a good relationship.

We also work the VERA Institute of Justice. Their mission, their last visit here, was to find out whether their police department is in fact working well with our community. And, essentially, what you heard today is essentially, yes. There are some misgivings. There are some concerns, but those are being worked on.

We are very proud to say that recently we built a connection with the NAACP, to Dean Ishman, and are building a coalition of essentially colored people to see if our organizations can begin to network and build connections with one another. We also work with -- yes?

DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Tanaka, I hate to cut you short here, but we are running into some time problems.

I just want to make a statement here, and maybe go in a different direction at this point.

For the record, I have known Mr. Tanaka for over 20 years. He's a retired high school principal here at the Clark County School District, and people who know him well respect him. And yet about a year ago you brought to me at an NAACP meeting this flier that was placed on his front door step, Love your race by the National Alliance. This particular flier says, It's time to take back America, and that all across the country, gang rapes of white women by Mexico, Asian, and African thugs are becoming common place. And if you want to join this organization, there is an application for membership.

Mr. Tanaka, would you respond to this and the follow up of what happened. Now, Mr. Tanaka is well respected in community. You find this and...

MR. TANAKA: Yes. Not just my yard, but in the neighborhood in Spring Valley. And, reportedly, it's been turned over, and there are some of these fliers being dropped off on high school campuses, in their parking lots. Sometimes stapled to the light poles in the parking lot.

This organization, we are glad to say, that the Review Journal and the Las Vegas Sun, through David Kehara and Juliet Casey, helped with an exposé on this man. His name is Mike Sullivan. His job, we were surprised to find out, was he was being paid taxpayer money by our state to run half-way houses. But then the Review Journal and the Sun they outed this man and

newspapers.

This gentleman was, in fact, running these fliers that you just saw David hold up and printing them on copiers, and the people distributing this were the ex-cons in the half-way houses that the State had him running.

Hence, that disclosure. They found out by tracing him back that was a convicted ex-felon, and they closed Vision House. And no longer is he being paid taxpayer money.

But how he cleared the State investigation to do this is still beyond me. But, none the less, I'm glad that he is no longer in that function. He is also however — he is passing these fliers around in Fallon and in some towns in Nevada.

He is also working with a friend of mine, an acquaintance of mine, who is with Utah Properties.

He's looking for a compound in Utah, like the Koresh compound. He is desiring to have 60 to 70 acres of land in what he thinks is a more accepting community. What does he expect to do with that compound? You can imagine, because I don't know. He is not talking to me.

But I will say this much, thanks to David and your

But I will say this much, thanks to David and your group, he was able to communicate with the Western Regional Office who fired off a letter to the Department of Justice.

My concluding statements today were going to be essentially this -- and one of the things that we decided to take upon ourselves is to ask Allstate Insurance Foundation to give us a grant which they have now awarded for $8000. And we are working with local hotels now to place this hate crimes workshop in our Asian Pacific leadership conference in October or November. And we plan on bringing people like David and Dean Ishman and Mujahid Ramadan and Rozita Lee, myself, and others to teach Asian Pacific Island people how to react to things like this, and how not to overreact to things like this and how to report.

And so I wanted to just bring this to a conclusion, that as we work together, one of the goals that the Japanese American Citizens League is concentrating on is to, one, build coalitions and connections with other civil rights organization; two, to join in efforts to resolve issues within your own communities and to seek pro bono services from right-minded Americans because we think pro bono services is something we can afford to ask for, especially from people in the legal departments and legal offices.

We all feel that civil right's decisions because they have been around for a while begin to get watered down. Oh, this too shall pass, this is going to happen no matter what. But we really feel that legislation cannot change the heart. We think that it has to become part of the community. The largest offenders that we feel are the public sector and in contract services companies where they can make a decision to contract with somebody, and if they are not doing it with an open atmosphere, we think that that's another problem.

In this city, the minority is becoming the majority. And our concern is the supremacist organizations that now are creating a climate of fear and mistrust, that the perpetual foreigners have more allegiances to the countries they come from than from this country where they live and raise families and become educated.

We believe that we should be global, but we have to act global. We are recommending to all of our citizens to record and document all incidences no matter what the severity or -- I guess, no matter what the difficulty so that we can begin to document patterns of this.

We feel that we need to document incidences accurately, however, and without exaggeration because exaggeration removes the integrity of the things that we are righting.

We feel that we need to make sure that current laws are being enforced, instead of trying to always rewrite laws.

We think that we should insist on coverage of events important to all minorities and to work in cooperation with minorities to incorporate it within the larger community.

We also feel that we have to communicate better with the media and to concentrate on how the media communicates to the rest of the industry.

We feel that access to health services is something that we have to concentrate on, as Dr. Nora insisted. And we always are saying to all of our civil rights organizations, Persist, persist, persist. And discrimination against one is discrimination against all, and that we have to honor those that have come before us and work for the gains that we have enjoyed, but that we have to finish this unfinished business.

In the Japanese American community we feel that pride inside is very, very important. That when somebody you suspect has set a road block or tripping stone in front of you, that you look at it as a stepping stone up. That pride inside, pride in who you are is important, because that was the American ethic that built this country. So we always tell them, Study hard, work hard, but study smart and work smart.

So today I thank you for this wonderful opportunity to air some testimony about what the Japanese American Citizens League is attempting to do in our city. We feel that just by being heard today and being added to the record that this calls attention to a greater community about the things that Japanese Americans and other Asian Pacific Islanders are feeling, but we don't want to exaggerate.

We hope that today you see this as an accurate representation of a community's feelings about how they are being perceived and how they belong in this community.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you, Mr. Tanaka. Any questions?

1 I just want to say that I MS. GABATO: 2 received the same flier in our neighborhood. 3 MR. TANAKA: That flier also appeared on 4 Cinco de Mayo of last year in restaurants of Mexico 5 background, but also at Chinese, Laotian, Cambodian, 6 and Japanese restaurants. Now, why it was given on 7 Cinco de Mayo may have only been coincidental, but the 8 sensitivity I had was, they put it out on Cinco de 9 Mayo. 10 The issue here was, that when it was given to 11 me by Warren Saita at Malibu Chins, he said it was very 12 intimidating to his customers because it was put on 13 their windshields of their cars. And this climate of 14 intimidation and fear is not something we can ignore. 15 I think the main point too is that it's a fabrication. The Asian, black, and Hispanics are not 16 17 targeting white women for gang rape. When you see the 18 application, it says, If you are a person of 19 honorable --20 DAVID SANCHEZ: Honorable character. 21 MR. TANAKA: Yeah. Without disqualifying 22 characteristics. That means if you have -- if you are 23 part Filipino or part black or part Japanese, you're 24 disqualified because you're not -- you are 25 disqualified.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any further questions of 2 Mr. Tanaka? 3 Again, thank you all for joining us and making your comments part of our record here in 4 5 assessing the status of civil rights here in Nevada. For the members of the Committee, we're 7 running a little bit behind time. Why don't we take a 8 break until about 1:15 and restart. I know it will be 9 short, but let's start at 1:15 with the next panel. 10 (Lunch recess) 11 DAVID SANCHEZ: This meeting of the Nevada 12 Advisory Committee to the United States Commission on 13 Civil Rights is reconvened. For the record, Mr. Tony Sanchez will have to 14 15 leave us shortly for another meeting, but we would like 16 to proceed with the Panel Four. And starting to my 17 left, would you please introduce yourself and make your 18 statement, introduce yourself, your organization, and 19 your role within it. 20 MR. NELSON: My name is Brian Nelson. 21 Enforcement Supervisor with the United States Equal 22 Opportunity Commission, and I have been asked to 23 present to you some information about the EEOC's 24 presence here in the state of Nevada.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Please, would you brief us.

MR. NELSON: Sure. I don't know if I should start or end with this, but I am sure you all might know that the EEOC is opening an office here in Las Vegas. There is two new offices opening in the Commission. One's in Las Vegas. One's in Mobile, Alabama. And it will be a local office that will be under the Los Angeles district office which is run by Olipios Perry who is our District Director.

They will have a local director here. They will have a supervisory -- enforcement supervisor similar to me. They will have three investigators and a support person.

This has been a long time coming at the request of the community here in Las Vegas, so we are very excited about it. I am told that it will be opening no later than October 1st. In fact, I have seen some of the job announcements go out. We do have space across from the new courthouse downtown, and so we're all very excited about that.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Nelson, just for the record, I want to let you know that on May 7th, 2004, I sent a letter to Mr. Olipios Perry asking for an office to be opened. So I'm glad that the EEOC has seen that there is a need, even though it did take two years.

MR. NELSON: Yeah. I know things move slowly with the government sometimes, but we're really pleased that it's finally coming here.

I have a breakdown for you of different charges that the EEOC has taken in the state of Nevada between 2003 and 2006. As you can imagine, the bulk of the charges are here in Clark County, which covers Las Vegas.

In fiscal year 2006, which is a little over half over right now, the EEOC has received 126 charges from -- that are based in Clark County. Out of 146 charges that we have received, 126 of those are from Clark County.

This report is for all of the southern counties in Nevada. The northern counties in Nevada, which used to be covered by our office, are now covered by our San Francisco office, so I believe this is a 13-county report.

And we went from a high in FY 2003 of 194 charges, and then it dropped to 119, down to 99. Now we're back up again to 126, so the charges have increased out of Las Vegas. And I am sure when the new office opens, a lot of people that originally would have gone over to our colleagues here at the Nevada Equal Rights Commission may choose instead to go to the EEOC, so we may actually see an increase in these 1 numbers.

DAVID SANCHEZ: How will that affect your agreement with NERC to defer cases to them, instead of taking them directly to you?

MR. NELSON: We will still dually file all of our cases with Nevada Equal Rights Commission just as we have done in the past because we have a work-share agreement. And they will continue to waive certain cases over to us too.

As far as basis, what the charges are based on, the big basis, the number one basis is retaliation. And what that means is people who have filed charges of discrimination or have engaged in the other protective activity either complaining internally or externally are alleging they have been subjected to retaliation. So that is something we're very focused on because we think it needs to be addressed to protect the integrity of the process. So that's the number one.

Number two, is race black shortly behind retaliation; and then, thirdly, sex female. And we get a variety of other types of charges, but those are the three biggest areas that we're seeing charges.

And as far as statutes go, the combined

Title 7 charges -- the combined number of charges of

231 for FY 2006, 31 of those are ADA cases, Americans

Laurie Webb & Associates 517 S. 9th. St. Las Vegas NV. 89101 1-800-982-3299

1 with Disabilities Act, and another 31 are age 2 discrimination and employment act cases. 3 And then as far as by issue, the biggest 4 issue we see is discharge cases, followed by harassment 5 which includes sexual harassment and/or racial 6 harassment and terms and conditions of employment which 7 is kind of a broad umbrella category which covers a lot 8 of different aspects of employment. 9 The EEOC, I feel, has made a pretty strong 10 presence even without having an office here. Under our 11 current Regional Attorney, Anna Park, it's very 12 important for her to have a presence here and to make 13 it known that employment discrimination will not be 14 tolerated. 15 Out of the 69 lawsuits that the EEOC has 16 filed in the last five years, 24 were filed in the 17 Nevada District Court, so a little over a third of 18 those cases were filed here in Nevada. 19 TONY SANCHEZ: The 69 were for the region? 20 MR. NELSON: For the region, which covers 21 counties in Southern California and Nevada. And out of 22 those 69, 24 were filed here in Nevada. 23 And, if I can, I'd like to just share with 24 you a few of those court cases that we have filed 25 and/or resolved.

1 One resolved was a court case we filed 2 against Campbell Concrete, and that resolved for 3 As you know, Las Vegas is so fast growing $125,000. 4 and there is a lot of construction industry jobs, and 5 with that, we have found that there is a lot of discrimination out there. And, in this case, the 7 charging party was retaliated against because she 8 complained of practices that -- she believed the 9 company was engaging in illegal practices, unlawful 10 employment discrimination. And because she did that, 11 she was retaliated against. And so the EEOC was able 12 to resolve that case on her behalf for $125,000 13 including injunctive relief.

And, like I said, the biggest issue we have is retaliation, the biggest basis, so you will see through these cases that retaliation is kind of a common thread.

The EEOC settled a wage discrimination complaint against a casino in Reno which is called the Club Cal-Neva, and this was filed under the Equal Pay Act. And they paid this parts runner, female parts runner, less than a male parts runner who was doing substantially the same work she was doing.

And so the suit also alleged that the casino unfairly disciplined the female parts runners by giving them unwarranted write-ups, and they also suspended the complainant after she complained about pay disparity. So once again we have the retaliation issue. And that case was settled, and the Club Cal-Neva agreed to pay the women $23,500, the charging party. And all of these, besides the money, include injunctive relief, like training, monitoring, posting, et cetera.

The EEOC settled a sexual harassment lawsuit against TIMET, which is a Titanium Metals Corporation, and that was at the Henderson facility. There were six female former and current employees that were sexually harassed there, and that included massive changes in their sexual harassment policy, as well as monitoring and training, and there was monetary relief involved too, although that wasn't part of the press release.

This one was just in the news recently. You might have heard that the EEOC is suing Lawry's restaurants for sex bias in their hiring procedures. This case arose out of LA, but that is a Lawry's here in Las Vegas. And, basically, the Lawry's restaurant chain does not hire men to be servers.

The EEOC in the past has sued other big restaurant chains who will not hire women as servers, but Lawry's has a policy that they do not hire men as servers, so the EEOC has just filed this lawsuit. 1 2 press release is dated April 3rd, 2006, and so we're hoping to be able to resolve that. 3 MS. FEMENELLA: They have some men serving 4 5 now. MR. NELSON: Yeah, they do have a few now. 7 After we got involved, they started to hire some men. MS. FEMENELLA: That's sure a funny feeling. 9 MR. NELSON: This one was a big, huge 10 settlement, and, actually, this was my case. This was 11 against the Mirage Hotel and Casino, and between 1996 12 and 1997, they discriminated against black and Hispanic 13 employees with regard to hiring and promotions. And 14 this case was resolved for $1.14 million on behalf of 15 the class of black and Hispanic applicants for 16 employment. 17 The Waldorf Saloon and Rooky Sports Bar, the 18 EEOC settled a sexual harassment case against them for 19 $200,000 in which the EEOC had alleged that the company 20 president and vice president and owners created a 21 hostile work environment for female employees. There 22 was a number of former female employees who were 23 subjected to sexual harassment, repeated advances, 24 unwanted touching, and vulgar language. That is in Las Vegas, I believe. I have never heard of them, but I think they are in Las Vegas.

Valentino, which is a big, huge fancy restaurant here in Las Vegas, the EEOC settled -- and this was also just recently, October 31st, 2005 -- settled a sexual harassment lawsuit for a class of women for $600,000. And most of the victims were very young, in their early 20s and one was in her teens.

The EEOC has an initiative called the Youth at Work Initiative where we go out and educate young people about their rights in the workforce, and so it's very important that we reach out to this group of young people who are just entering the work force so they know their rights. And we do see a lot of cases where people will try to abuse younger employees because they feel they are more vulnerable and can take advantage of them.

Another restaurant, the Cavalier Restaurant, agreed to pay $50,000 to settle an EEOC age discrimination lawsuit. This restaurant had laid off two food servers basically because of their age, and so that was settled for $50,000. One of the servers was 66 and one was 64, and they had been laid off by the employer.

Peppermill Casino, which is in Reno, the EEOC settled a lawsuit with them. This is from 2003. The EEOC believed that a minority applicant was not hired for a position, and also they violated EEOC's record keeping violation by not keeping proper records and destroying applications. They agreed to pay $5,000 to applicant, and they agreed to properly maintain their documents as required by the record-keeping requirements under the law.

$45,000 for age discrimination when the company which is an information services provider -- I'm trying to see the name of the company here. It's a Texas-based company, but they -- where the discrimination happened was here in Las Vegas, Nevada. It's called Examination Management Services, Incorporated, doing business as EMSI. A 61-year-old employee was fired and replaced by a substantially younger worker, so the EEOC settled that case.

And then the EEOC settled a race national origin harassment suit against KC Asphalt, another construction company here in Las Vegas. They subjected a Pakistani employee to harassment based on his race, age, and natural origin, Pakistani. And they paid $200,000 and engaged in a wide variety of injunctive remedies with training, posting, monitoring, et cetera.

EEOC sued American Premier Homes which is one of the biggest home builders in the country. This is just a lawsuit. It's not a settlement, and this was in 2004, and it's still working its way through the court system. But the lawsuit says that the company fired its Customer Service Director for participating in a sex harassment investigation. The director had stuck up for an employee who came to protest sexual harassment. So this is another form of retaliation, and, you know, the EEOC obviously wants to make a strong statement against retaliation and keeping the integrity of the process.

And just one more. The EEOC filed a class lawsuit against a local cabinet maker for harassment of its Hispanic workers. This is a lawsuit from 2004 which is still pending. This is called Western Case Work Corporation, and the suit alleges that it caused a hostile work environment for the Hispanic workers. And we do see with all the immigration stories on the news and everything that there has been kind of a backlash against Hispanic workers in the work place.

Also one thing we have seen since 9/11 -- I thought I brought this case with me, but I guess I didn't. We did settle a case on behalf of a Middle Eastern worker who was harassed and let go from a company here in Las Vegas in the oil industry. And

1 that case settled for, I believe, $250,000. 2 But since 9/11, we have seen also a backlash 3 of discrimination against people who are Arab or 4 Muslim, and even people who may not be Arab or Muslim 5 but may appear to be Arab. So that is one of our priorities in the Commission to address these sorts of 7 cases. DAVID SANCHEZ: Mr. Nelson, what has prompted 9 the EEOC to establish an office here in Las Vegas, 10 other than my letter? 11 MR. NELSON: I don't really -- I'm not privy 12 to their decision. I know that there has been, you 13 know, some sort of pressure locally for a long time. 14 And I know that our Chairwoman Dominguez announced to 15 us I think about two years ago that there would be a 16 realignment of the whole Commission. So the 17 Los Angeles office, which used to be over San Diego, is 18 now over Honolulu, Fresno, and the new Las Vegas 19 office. 20 And I think just demographically, just the 21 growth and the population here and in Mobile, Alabama, 22 may have been responsible for them seeing the need to 23 open offices here for customer service purpose. 24 DAVID SANCHEZ: I happen to have a news article, July 26, 2005, from the Review Journal which

1 states that, The Nevada Equal Rights Commissioner 2 Administrator Susan Gray, in a letter to federal 3 officials says that the EEOC is not needed here in 4 Southern Nevada. 5 Any comment? I believe there is an absolute 6 MR. NELSON: 7 need for the EEOC here in Southern Nevada. I mean, I 8 have read to you the types of cases we have, and I 9 think it would be very helpful to have a presence here in the state rather than having our attorneys always 10 11 come out and our investigators come out to do the 12 investigations and the lawsuits. I think it's a 13 definite priority to have a presence here. 14 DAVID SANCHEZ: Would you tell us about your 15 proposed staffing levels. 16 There will be a director MR. NELSON: Yes. 17 here, a local director, there will be an enforcement 18 supervisor. There will be three investigators, and 19 there will be one support person. 20 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any questions of Mr. Nelson 21 from the panel? 22 MS. KINDRED: Could you tell us more about 23 the interface about the EEOC chapter and NERC here. 24 MR. NELSON: Sure. We have a work-share 25 agreement, and we basically -- the EEOC gets charges, and we automatically dually filed them with the State of Nevada. And they waive -- if it's filed with us, then they waive the case over to us, or, basically, we do the investigation.

If it's filed with them, they usually keep it, but there are some situations in which they would transfer it over to us. For example, if that's a time issue. And so, for the most part, they would do their investigation. We would do ours.

But then we also request cases from them. If they are likely related to cases that we have, then our state and local coordinator who manages the interface between the state agencies will request certain files, and we will get those files from them.

MS. NIX: I'm Theresa Nix. I'm the Acting Administrator for the Nevada Equal Rights Commission.

I was just commenting to Mr. Nelson that there will probably be some cases as well regarding sexual orientation which in the state of Nevada we do stage sexual orientation as protected class. In those instances, because under federal law it's not protected, they would be sending those to us.

And I can see that it's going to be a very cooperative and good working relationship, as it has been in the past. I really don't see that there is

1	going to be a big change in the interactions between
2	the two organizations.
3	MR. NELSON: And the EEOC also funds an
4	outreach program, and I have done training with
5	Theresa, and other members of our staff has done
6	training with Nevada Equal Rights Commission personnel.
7	In fact, I was just coming from a training that I gave
8	to 70 employees at the Job Training Education Network.
9	And so we will keep that as a strong priority
10	to do outreach here when the Las Vegas office opens.
11	DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. For the record,
12	let me pause and let everyone know that State Advisory
13	Committee member Fafie Moore has just joined us.
14	MS. MOORE: Thank you.
15	DAVID SANCHEZ: Any further questions of
16	Mr. Nelson?
17	MR. PENNINGTON: Yes, Mr. Chairman.
18	Mr. Nelson, you and Ms. Nix were just having
19	a conversation on the transfer of the sexual
20	orientation issues. Is that a major issue that we face
21	here in the state or within your purview?
22	MR. NELSON: We do see people come into the
23	office or not come into the office, but contact our
24	office who are alleging sexual orientation
25	discrimination. And we have to tell them it's not

1	covered under federal law, and we send them to Theresa.
2	But maybe she would have a better idea of
3	what percentage of their cases involve sexual
4	orientation.
5	MR. PENNINGTON: I can come back to that
6	during your presentation, so I appreciate that.
7	DAVID SANCHEZ: Belen?
8	MS. GABATO: Thank you for your comments,
9	Mr. Nelson. I just wanted to find out from you how
10	long does it take for a case to be resolved? Is it
11	based on the charge?
12	MR. NELSON: It is based on the charge. The
13	Commission has implemented priority charge handling
14	procedures, so basically we can focus most of our
15	energy on those cases where we really think we will be 16	able to make a difference. And those cases where we
17	don't think there's anything there, we can pretty much
18	dismiss them out of hand or within a short time period.
19	Our goal for investigations is 180 days. We
20	don't have a set time frame that we have to conduct an
21	investigation within. Our goal is 180 days, and I'm
22	proud to say that the LA office has remained within
23	that goal.
24	MS. GABATO: Number two question is, being
25	that I come from the Asian Pacific community, how many cases are filed by that sector of the population?

2
               MR. NELSON:
                            Let me tell you.
                                              In Nevada?
                                                           In 3
    the state of Nevada?
               MS. GABATO:
                            Yes.
                                  Thank you.
                            In 2006, we have so far only had
               MR. NELSON:
5
    one race Asian Pacific Islander charge filed with the
            In the past, it's ranged between one and seven.
    We have had some issues with Asian people not coming forward to complain about discrimination.
                                                 I don't 10 think the low numbers mean that discrimination doesn't 11 exist for that community.
12
               MS. GABATO: It does.
                                      I can tell you it
    does.
14
               MR. NELSON: Yes.
                                  And so we do -- we are 15 concentrating outreach efforts on giving outreach to 16
                         There is some communities locally
     these communities.
17
     in LA, and we would be definitely happy to know of more 18
    Asian-based organizations that we can give our outreach 19
     to.
20
               MS. GABATO: Yes.
                                  I think from general comments from my interaction with our population, they
22 have the perception that filing locally doesn't amount 23 to any kind of action, and filing out of federal court 24 in LA does, but because it's too far away, you know, 25 they just don't go that route. So and then I will make further comments later with NERC. So that's why I was asking about the population.

When we have discrimination based on age, what is the basis for winning that when you do your investigation? Because I have questions like that from our population.

MR. NELSON: Well, it would be based on the evidence and comparative evidence. Usually, it depends kind of on the issue too. For example, a lay-off issue where the company is doing lay offs and, say, for example, they are disproportionately laying off people in the protected age group. That might be one example.

Or especially, like here, in Las Vegas where there's such an image, they want a really desired image within the casinos, we see a lot of age discrimination. Like, for example, cocktail servers, if we see that they try to let go of the older cocktail servers. So we have settled cases regarding that.

MS. GABATO: And, number four, regarding the outreach when you have an office here, I would like to just comment that I would like the Asian American population to be included in that outreach because we do need information, education in our sector. Thank you.

MR. NELSON: You're welcome.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: For the record, I have had 2 conversation with the LA office, and they have agreed 3 that the State Advisory Committee here would be the 4 lead organization to set up a meeting with the 5 communities in Southern Nevada. So we will be taking the lead on that and welcoming them here. 7 Any other questions from the members? 8 I have one. 9 That is the ethnic categories that are 10 currently considered protective and used for disparate 11 impact analysis, adverse impact analysis, et cetera, 12 for quite some time the EEOC has said that they will be 13 re-working those protective categories. I have talked 14 to the local office, Santos Albarran, and he has 15 referred me to Washington. 16 Is there a target date to revise those ethnic 17 categories so that they would be a little bit more 18 clear in terms of what we're dealing with in 19 discrimination? 20 MR. NELSON: I'm not really aware of that. 21 You know, our director might be aware of that. I know 22 the census recently on the last census added a 23 multi-ethnic category to their census. I don't have 24 any idea if the EEOC is going to follow suit on that. 25 I'm not privy to that information.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: It would make it difficult 2 for a multi-racial person then to file a category. 3 have five categories at this point, right? 4 No, not at all. People who are MR. NELSON: multi-racial can file discrimination charges because 5 6 they feel they are discriminated against because of 7 their multi-racial category. 8 DAVID SANCHEZ: Will you have any 9 Spanish-speaking investigators here at the local 10 office? 11 MR. NELSON: Yes, we will have a bilingual 12 investigator, if not two. 13 MS. MOORE: If you're going to address the 14 Hispanic community, are you also going to address the 15 Filipino community and a couple others where they are a 16 large, growing community here and they also have their 17 own language? Are any of those others going to be 18 addressed? 19 I don't know if we will have a MR. NELSON: 20 bilingual Tagalog investigator. I guess I'm not really 21 totally aware of how great that need is. But one thing 22 is if we don't have a bilingual investigator who speaks 23 the language, we will bring a translator in for the 24 person so the investigation and the interviews can be 25 done effectively.

1	MS. MOORE: I would like to see that
2	particularly for the Filipino community too because
3	they are growing as large as I mean, they are
4	growing at a very rapid rate in addition to the
5	Hispanic community.
6	MR. NELSON: I will report that to our
7	District Director.
8	MS. GABATO: Just to comment on that one. If
9	you won't hire, you know, or you don't we would like
10	to partner with you in our community to help serve that
11	population for voluntarily service for that. When you
12	have the office here, we can do that.
13	MR. NELSON: Absolutely. One of our biggest
14	outreach events is to community-based organizations,
15	and so we definitely want to reach out to all of the 16	various communities, especially communities that the
17	EEOC has seen as maybe being under-served in the past.
18	MS. GABATO: Thank you.
19	MR. NELSON: You're welcome.
20	DAVID SANCHEZ: Any further questions?
21	If not, could we have the next speaker
22	introduce herself, her role in the organization.
23	Thank you so much, Mr. Nelson, for joining
24	us.
25	MS. NIX: My name is Theresa Nix. I am the

Acting Administrator for Nevada Equal Rights Commission. And in about seven days, I will go back to my role as Deputy Administrator, and I have with me today Deborah Madison who will take her position on May 10th as the Nevada Equal Rights Commission's new administrator, so we are very happy to have Deborah and have her with us today.

I want to start out very quickly with a legislative update which I'm sure that everyone on the Commission and Council here knows. But, just in case, during the last session of the Nevada legislature, legislation was passed giving the Nevada Equal Rights Commission jurisdiction over public accommodation enforcement as well as housing.

And we are currently taking and investigating these charges as they are brought to us, and we are in the process of creating and distributing brochures to the public on public accommodation and housing rights and responsibilities. And the fact that we are taking these charges, we had a few trickle in, and we are prepared, as I said, to move forward now with making sure that we get as much information out to the communities as possible as far as what the rights and responsibilities are in these issues.

Since the last time Nevada Equal Rights

Commission was honored in making a presentation to this Advisory Committee, we have continued to work on the quality of investigations we perform, and we are also shortening the case age. And I'll have some statistics on those for you today. So I'm happy to be here to have good news from the Nevada Equal Rights Commission on some hard work that is being done, and we promise you we will continue to be done.

We continue to provide training for our investigators and our mediators. We recently had from the EEOC investigators and training investigators for advanced investigation come to us here in Las Vegas, and we had a statewide training on advanced investigative technique which was provided by the Equal Opportunity Commission. So we're continuing to improve the quality of the investigations that are taking place.

We are also working to improve the amount of outreach and training we're conducting in the communities. We do believe at the Nevada Equal Rights Commission that the best way to combat work place discrimination is to prevent it from happening in the first place. And we believe that educating employers and workers about their rights and responsibilities under the law is the first step in an inclusive work culture where all workers are judged on their talents and abilities.

The Equal Rights Commission is helping employers to help build strong prevention programs that comply with laws and break down our barriers to employment opportunities. We believe, as the EEOC, that outreach and education is the best way to prevent discrimination. And we believe proactive approaches can help businesses move forward with sound business work place practices that foster a level playing field and allow the best talents to emerge. Diversity is not just a -- and honoring diversity is not just a good It's a great business practice. And we are trying to do as much as we can to spread that message in the community. With our training programs, we're encouraging inclusive and equal employment opportunity work places, and we strive to achieve increased voluntary compliance with state and federal laws.

The belief is also reinforced by some good news in the charge filing. We have seen that -- in charge filing, we have seen a small decrease. Now, some of that may have to do with the fact that people are filing with the EEOC as well. But we've seen about a 2 percent drop in the amount of charges that are being filed, and we believe that some of that has to do with outreach, as does the EEOC.

EEOC in the last year for fiscal year 2005, saw a 5 percent decrease in charges, and they cited an aggressive outreach and training effort as a possible factor in that decrease, and we are believing that as well.

You had just heard the stats from the EEOC on what they have seen as far as exclusive charges in the state of Nevada that were filed with them. And what I would like to do now is take a look at those charges that have been filed in the state of Nevada. So you're going to see some overlap in the those because I believe, and because Mr. Nelson is here, I wasn't able to verify with him before he left that those charges are not dually filed. In other words, the numbers that he gave you were numbers that were filed strictly with the EEOC that were not through the work-share agreement These would then be charges that have been filed with the Nevada Equal Rights Commission, so I believe those numbers are separate. Okay. But because I didn't get to confirm that with him before he left, but I believe that's what he had said.

In fiscal year 2005, in charging filings in Nevada, we received 1235 charges. Of those, 359 charges were race; 471 were sex; 419 of those were retaliation charges. We too see retaliation as the largest basis. Age was 312; disability, 201 charges; national origin, 161; religion, 33; and equal pay, 21.

The charges brought to resolution in 2005 also included the oldest cases in the Nevada Equal Rights case load. I am happy to tell you that we do not have any charges on the books today that are older than 2005. All of our cases are 2005 and 2006. Our average case age is 155 days.

So the hard work -- we did -- as I believe this Committee is aware of, we did undertake the same charge prioritization procedures as EEOC follows in their priority charges being filed, and that is the same process that we're using, and it's working very effectively for us. And it has helped us to drop the length of time on those charges.

I will give you a couple of other little stats so that you have a good idea of how the Nevada Equal Rights Commission is doing and how we are working.

One of our performance measure indicators that we use at the legislature is the percent of discrimination cases that are perfected within 15 days or 22 working days, which means that from the time we get an inquiry up until the time that charge is, quote, formalized, signed, and ready to send out or dismissed, that's the time period we're looking at.

And right now, 85 percent of our cases are perfected within 22 working days.

What you see in that other percentage are those cases where the charging parties may be out in those cases where the charging parties may be out in the rural areas, and we have to mail that charge out.

Maybe they want to take it to an attorney and have an attorney look at it, and then sign it, and send to back to us.

So in some instances, it's out of our control. We may have someone too who we perfect the charges, it's ready for signature, we send it to them, and they want to take a little bit of time to think about. And sometimes people can take six weeks, you know, to think about it.

But right now, we're 85 percent. The percent of cases, as I said, that are open 270 days or less, we are at 86 percent. So the majority of our cases are at 155 days, and we also right now have a year average of 23 percent of our cases are resolved at mediation. So that kind of gives you an idea.

We're working also on being able to resolve the cases at mediation and giving everyone an opportunity, employer and charging party included, the 1 opportunity to try and negotiate and settle the charge 2 before it has to go through the investigative process. 3 With that, I'd like to say that we appreciate the opportunity to be here. We appreciate the 4 opportunity to work. I know there has been quite a bit 5 of discussion here today in regards to outreach. As Brian Nelson was just telling you, we have 7 8 more than enough work that can be done, that we can 9 share that work. There's plenty of outreach to be 10 done. The Nevada Equal Rights Commission would like to participate in any kind of discussion or any kind of 11 12 outreach programs that this Council would see would 13 benefit the community in any of those groups or 14 employers in any way that we can. 15 So with that, I thank you for the opportunity 16 to be here before you today and would be happy to 17 answer any questions that you have. 18 DAVID SANCHEZ: Ms. Nix, how long have you 19 been Acting Administrator for NERC? 20 MS. NIX: Since March, excuse me. 21 March 3rd. 22 DAVID SANCHEZ: What is your funding right 23 Has it changed over the last year, or is it about the same? 24 25 MS. NIX: It's the same.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: What about your staffing 2 levels? Our staffing levels have remained 3 MS. NIX: the same. 4 Given that --5 DAVID SANCHEZ: MS. NIX: They have not changed in the last 7 year that the staffing levels have changed. DAVID SANCHEZ: Given that, I'm curious why 8 9 and how you've been able to manage your case load 10 because the NERC has appeared before us in the past. 11 We have had discussions and complaints about the 12 backlog, et cetera. 13 How could you manage this and come to the 14 point that you are now with no increase in funding or 15 staffing? 16 Well, I think that one of things MS. NIX: 17 that we wanted to do is through the priority charge 18 handling procedures, what we were able to do in a lot 19 of those instances was to take cases that normally 20 would have -- we would be able to close those right 21 away because we haven't been able to establish prima 22 facia and those sorts of things, that we could move 23 those. 24 And, once again, in focusing in on working 25 the oldest cases first, we have also worked with training so that our investigators didn't necessarily have to work harder. They needed to work smarter. And we have been working with them in order to have that occur.

So I think that in the changing of some of our processes and procedurally, internal, taking a look

So I think that in the changing of some of our processes and procedurally, internal, taking a look at what was working and what wasn't working, where could timelines be shortened, those kinds of things, we have as, you know, through the informal settlement meeting process, with 23 percent of the cases being able to be resolved before they get to investigation, once again, that frees up those investigators to move forward with investigating those cases that they need to.

So that's really what I would say has occurred. It's just that we have concentrated, we have listened, and we have done our best to work as efficiently as we possibly could.

DAVID SANCHEZ: In the late 1990s, the head of the Nevada Equal Rights commission was known as an Executive Director and reported directly to the Governor. Now, the title has changed, and you report to who at this point?

MS. NIX: I report to -- well, I'll report to our Administrator, of course, but our Administrator will report to the Director of the Department of 2 Employment, Training, and Rehabilitation, 3

1
     Mr. Terry Johnson.
               DAVID SANCHEZ: That was troubling to this 5 Advisory Committee because of the lack of independence.
     And earlier, while you were not here, I read portions of a letter that I sent March 24th, 2000, to Governor 8
     Kenny Guinn asking that he consider re-instituting 9 independence for the Nevada Equal Rights Commission.
10
               Do you have any comments on that?
11
               MS. NIX:
                         I cannot comment -- I would not 12 comment on that today, sir. I'm not prepared to.
13
               DAVID SANCHEZ: Do you feel that you are 14 independent in terms of the execution of your duties at 15 this point?
16
               MS. NIX: Yes, sir, I do.
17
               DAVID SANCHEZ: Even though you report, not 18 to the Governor, but to another director?
19
               MS. NIX: Yes, sir.
20
               DAVID SANCHEZ:
                               Okay.
                                       I read earlier to 21
     Mr. Nelson the fact that earlier Nevada Equal Rights 22 Commission Administrator Susan Gray had made a 23 statement publicly that she did not believe that the 24
     EEOC was needed here.
               Would you comment on that?

1 I think the fact that the EEOC has MS. NIX: 2 made a determination to open an office in the Las Vegas 3 area opens us up to an opportunity to continue in what 4 has been a good working relationship, and we will 5 continue to make the best of that working relationship. 6 That's the only comment that I would have at 7 this point, is that we have worked well in the past, 8 and I see no reason why this would not enhance the 9 ability for the citizens of the state of Nevada to have 10 an opportunity to file those charges that they may 11 believe need to be filed in a situation where they are 12 comfortable in filing that charge. 13 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any questions from the 14 Advisory Committee? 15 MR. PENNINGTON: Good afternoon, Ms. Nix. 16 Thanks for joining us today. 17 Ms. Madison, welcome and congratulations on 18 your new appointment. We look forward to working with 19 you as well. 20 Earlier in the testimony, we had an 21 opportunity to touch on an issue of collaboration 22 between the EEOC and NERC, and that was relative to 23 equal employment through the classification sexual 24 orientation.

Given the fact that this Committee not only

1 looks at Nevada but also responds to the Federal 2 Commission, it would be nice to see at some point in 3 time that the Federal Government would be as 4 progressive and have that same fortitude to consider that under federal law as we do under state law. 5 But if you would touch base with me on that 7 issue and maybe what types of cases you have or any 8 information you can share relative to sexual 9 orientation through your work and your agency's work, 10 that would be appreciated. Thank you. 11 MS. NIX: Thank you. 12 13 14 15 16

I can tell you that as far as sexual orientation is concerned, the number of charges that we have received with sexual orientation as a basis for discrimination has been low. Once again, I think that comes from -- not from the fact that it's not occurring, but, once again, from a community that has not been comfortable in the past in coming forward.

And I think as we take more of these charges, as we investigate these charges, and they are done so in an expedient manner and in a professional manner, we're seeing that more individuals are coming forward with their charges.

In fiscal year 2006, just trying to do a quick add up here of the number of charges that we have seen with sexual orientation as a basis -- we're probably close to 40 charges where sexual orientation is the basis.

And, once again, because of the fact that it's a state law and a state protected class as opposed to federal protected class, I think that's one of the reasons why we see so few of them because of the fact that people do not understand their rights. And that is one of the reasons that we have tried to perform outreach in those communities where sexual orientation is of concern and that we are experiencing discrimination. And we're just doing that through different types of outreach.

I have participated in a couple of rally's with LAMDA and other organizations to reach those communities and help them in finding ways to bring forth their charges of which they're comfortable and which they feel that their privacy is also being protected in the work place. So we're moving forward that.

We're also -- in our trainings that we go out with the general public and employers, with managers, and supervisors, we are also letting them know that the sexual orientation state statutes apply to their businesses. So if you have a training for, let's say, just in sexual harassment or basic EEO training, when they come forth and they do that training, they may not talk about sexual orientation as a protected class because all they're looking at are those federal statutes as opposed to when the Nevada Equal Rights Commission goes out and conducts training. We're talking about state statute as well as the federal statutes. So a little bit different approach in that outreach.

MR. PENNINGTON: I definitely appreciate your efforts and sensitivity on that issue. I also appreciate the fact that you guys worked hard to include that in the public accommodation and housing laws that passed last session.

I have one follow-up question that's unrelated to this, but David had mentioned it as far as going through your needs and you're -- that you're getting your process to go through the state budget process at this point in time. In developing that, you talked about how the office is working more efficiently and effectively to get to resolution and investigation.

Will the Commission be putting forth any recommendations for budget enhancements going into the next session in order to accommodate the challenges that you see, or is there any sense of policies that you are looking at right now that might enhance or help your efforts in the next bi-anum?

MS. NIX: Well, I can tell you that if we were having this conversation next week, I would have those for you. We are right at that process at this time, especially with Ms. Madison coming on as a new Administrator and working with our Director. I don't especially see that we're going to be asking for an increase in budget at this time.

Once again, we're moving forward, and depending on our work-share agreement and the contract with EEOC, we're taking a look at those. And so all of those figures are really pretty much in the cooker at this time. And so while I'm not trying to dodge your question, I really can't give you an answer to that question today that I would be comfortable with because I really -- we haven't had an opportunity to look and see exactly what it is we're going to be going forward with.

But I don't anticipate seeing that we're going to be asking for an increase, especially at a time when we're seeing that the EEOC is going to be managing an office in Las Vegas. We would want to see what that impact is going to be. So I really don't think that we're going to be asking for additional funding at this time.

2
                                Okay. Thank you.
               MR. PENNINGTON:
3
               MS. NIX: But don't hold me to that.
               MS. GABATO: Just a couple of questions.
5
    Thank you for your comments.
               One, when you do outreach and you mentioned 7 that you do outreach to employers and businesses, do 8 you also do outreach to workers informing them of their 9 rights in the law?
10
                         Yes, Ma'am.
               MS. NIX:
                                      What we normally do 11 with employers is we suggest that they have two, at 12 least two, training sessions. One training session for 13 their supervisors and managers that explains to them 14 their rights and responsibilities; and then also one 15 training session that is for employees in general that 16 makes sure that they understand, not only what their 17 rights are, but what their responsibilities are, and 18 then we also take an opportunity to go over the 19 policies of that specific employer, the reporting 20 processes, what does an individual do, how would a 21 person bring forth a charge internally before they go 22 forward with that charge to try to see if it can't be 23 taken care of at the employer level.
24
               So that's normally what we try to do, and in 25 most instances, that's what the employers do, and we

1 try to do that all within a short period of time so 2 that everybody is on the same page at the same time. 3 MS. GABATO: Okay. Number two, since you said that -- well, in the discussion, you said that 5 funding has not been increased, so you haven't had more 6 employees than what you have now, but that your case 7 age is 155 days, and you've accomplished that to that 8 degree. 9 What I'm going so ask you is because I have 10 this lingering question in my mind. When interacting in our community, I find that some of the comments have 11 12 been that, Well, why don't you file with the NERC. 13 they say, Well, it's because they dismiss it and it's 14 closed, it's not even investigated. 15 So I'm just wondering if that has any 16 relationship to this perception that, you know, you're 17 efficient and expedient in resolving cases, but that 18 the involved people, the people who file, are not 19 really perceived that that has not been truly 20 investigated and looked into.

21

23

MS. NIX: That the numbers -- thank you. And I appreciate the question. The numbers that we were discussing are -- do not include the dismissed cases. The numbers that we're talking about were numbers where they actually went through an informal settlement

1 meeting and on to investigation. 2 As far as, I'll say, misperception, the 3 missed communication in these instances, I believe, 4 once again, it comes down to education and what -- and 5 having individuals understand up front. And we're 6 trying, we're trying very desperately in the beginning 7 at the case when a person comes in the door of 8 explaining to them the process of what it takes to 9 bring forth a case. And that's establishing a prima 10 facia case, a case that on its face that says, you 11 know, that this person has been treated differently and 12 those sorts of things, is that when a case is dismissed 13 that people think it's because the Nevada Equal Rights 14 Commission doesn't care. And what we have to do is we have to be more 15 16 involved in helping individuals understand when their 17 cases are dismissed why they are dismissed. 18 MS. GABATO: Last one. 19 MS. NIX: Yes, Ma'am, please. 20 MS. GABATO: Same thing, how many Asians 21 filed with the NERC? 22 MS. NIX: I am sorry. I did not bring that 23 breakdown, but I would be happy to give you that -- to 24 get that information for you.

Thank you.

MS. GABATO: Okay.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: If you would forward that --2 MS. NIX: I would be happy to provide any 3 information that you need. 4 DAVID SANCHEZ: And that information, would 5 you please provide that to our Western Regional Office, 6 Mr. Pilla, back there and he can incorporate that into 7 the record. 8 MS. NIX: Yes, sir. 9 DAVID SANCHEZ: Fafie? 10 MS. MOORE: I have two questions, and they 11 are totally different topics, okay. The first one I'd 12 like to ask is, do you have a lot of experience with 13 lending -- complaints about unfairness in lending 14 because Nevada has been one of the states the Federal 15 Government has identified as having some real problems 16 with their lending practices. 17 Do you find that people are coming to you 18 when they feel like they have been discriminated 19 against, very high costs for loans that other people 20 are getting? Are you getting any of that, or are you 21 not getting any of that? 22 MS. NIX: We have not at this point. But, I 23 think, once again, that comes along with the territory 24 of the public knowing that the Nevada Equal Rights 25 Commission is now taking those housing charges.

1 have not seen that at this point. But that, once 2 again, doesn't mean that it's not occurring. 3 haven't seen it. 4 MS. MOORE: Because there are issues of 5 people based on their origin or their ethnicity being 6 charged very disparate pricing on that. 7 Yes, Ma'am. MS. NIX: And I know that even 8 when this was being discussed at the level of the 9 legislature, that was one of the things that came up. 10 And I think that that is a whole other area of outreach 11 that needs to be done in those communities, once again, 12 of people not knowing that they even have a right to 13 say anything or that this is a form of discrimination. 14 They know that it's occurring, but they don't 15 know where to bring the charge or how to bring that 16 charge forth or what kind of information they need to 17 bring to us as an agency when making those charges, so 18 that would be part of an outreach. 19 MS. MOORE: One of your outreaches might be 20 targeted towards the lenders that are serving those 21 communities, that they understand their rights and 22 responsibilities, so that we wouldn't have the need for 23 complaints in the practices --24 MS. NIX: Duly noted. I see Ms. Madison 25 writing --

1 MS. MOORE: I would like to see that. 2 Now, my other question on my totally 3 different topic. Your numbers were very informative. 4 I noticed that you said 471 of the cases filed were 5 related to sex and 21 were equal pay. 6 So I'm going to make an assumption based on 7 this information that the reason if a person felt that 8 they were not being treated fairly because of sex did 9 not have to do with pay. It had to do with their 10 getting promotions, being hired, being promoted; is 11 that accurate? 12 MS. NIX: Yes, Ma'am. 13 In those situations, do you find MS. MOORE: 14 that -- now, these are cases that have gone forward? 15 These are cases that MS. NIX: Yes, Ma'am. 16 are in the -- have either been investigated or are in 17 the process of being investigated because this is 18 FY 2005, so some of these may lap over. 19 We have about a-hundred-and something cases 20 that are 2005 that we're working on, so some of these 21 are going to be those cases. 22 MS. MOORE: So is it safe to say that since 23 only 21 of your cases had to do with pay, people are 24 feeling that the reason they're having complaints and

1 they are not getting the same opportunities as other 2 people, but when they get into the position, they're 3 being paid for those positions? I'm trying to -- 4
               MS. NIX:
                         Right. On the equal pay, the Equal 5
     Pay Act is basically where you have a male and female 6
     doing the same job in the same position with the same 7
     amount of experience, but one is being paid more than 8 the other.
9
               Those -- also, just as a note, on the equal 10 pay, those are some of those cases where Mr. Nelson was 11 saying that there were some that we would automatically 12 defer to the EEOC. Equal pay is one of those 13 categories. With equal pay, those cases are 14 automatically transferred to the EEOC as part of our -- 15
               MS. MOORE:
                           So you're not going to be 16 addressing those as much as -- 17
               MS. NIX:
                         Where the basis is sex.
18
               MS. MOORE: Okay. You know, nationally and 19 statistically, woman are still not at parity with men, 20 and so that would be -- 21
               MS. NIX: Right. And those would be 22 investigated -- 23
               MS. MOORE: I'm trying to get these 24 statistics worked out in my head.
25
               MS. NIX: Yes, Ma'am. And those are being
```

1 investigated on the federal level.
2
               MS. MOORE:
                           Okay.
3
               DAVID SANCHEZ: Ouestions?
                                           Doris?
4
               MS. FEMENELLA: Welcome aboard.
                                                 That's all I can say at this time, and thank you for your comments.
5
               My concern is, in your outreach programs, 7
    have you taken into consideration the ethnic community 8 that Nevada consists of in your staffing of your workers?
               In other words, do we have staffers that 10 represent the Asian community, the black community, so 11 sometimes you have to resort back to calling on them 12 for information regarding cultural problems, and what 13 have you, that might exist in their request?
14
               MS. NIX: Are you speaking in regards to the 15 staffing of the Nevada Equal Rights Commission?
16
               MS. FEMENELLA: Exactly.
17
               MS. NIX: We do have black, Hispanic.
18 also have male/female. And, at this point, I do not 19 believe that we have Asian.
                                  I don't think we do.
20
               MS. GABATO:
                            Although, in the past, you have 21 had on your board.
22
               MS. NIX: Yes, Ma'am. We do on our board, on 23 our board of our commission -- 24
               MS. FEMENELLA:

1 Asian Pacific, so I feel that we are probably as well 2 represented as we can possibly be at this time. 3 as I said, because of the fact that we do have on our 4 Commission -- and Commissioners are varied as well in 5 their backgrounds, I think we have a very good 6 representation. 7 Also, one of the benefits of being a part of 8 the Department of Employment, Training, and 9 Rehabilitation, we have many, many resources to look 10 into and talk to individuals who might be able to give 11 us an insight into cultural problems as well as 12 cultural distinctions and those sorts of things. 13 MS. FEMENELLA: I'm looking at it as the 14 immediacy right in the office. If something comes up 15 that you can't reach a Commissioner, so it could be 16 taken care of by an individual or individuals of that 17 particular group. Unfortunately, everyone has, you 18 know, problems, and they differ along cultural lines, 19 and I think that there is a need at some time, some 20 place to have representation in that area. 21 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other questions at this 22 time? 23 One quick question. MS. KINDRED: 24 Could you tell me when the priority charge handling procedures went into place that you mentioned.

MS. NIX: The priority charge handling procedures went into place, it's been two years ago. I want to say two years. I want to say two years ago. So in 2004, latter part of 2003, beginning of 2004.

And that was the other thing too. I don't know when the last -- when you last had someone from the Nevada Equal Rights Commission in front of you. This has been a process that has occurred over the last two years. It didn't just all of a sudden we, boom, cleared everything out. It's been a process that we've been working on over the past two years, and, as well as, the charge prioritization.

We have also worked on case management approaches where we have — the investigators are using different types of case management tools than what they have used in the past, using, you know, using calendars and letters and task lists and those sorts of things that were not in place before, so that they were able to make sure that time—sensitive material was going out, requests for information were going out, and those sorts of things, even though they might not have been, quote, actively working on that case on that specific day.

There were things that needed to be done for a case that were coming up, and because of a new way of

1 managing cases, they would be notified with the 2 computer system that this letter needs to go out, you 3 need to ask for this request for information, and those 4 sorts of things. So that a lot of little things that would be 5 falling behind, that would have drug out, and 6 7 investigators ability to close a -- you know, to come to determination on a case, those things, they are 8 9 being notified of through the new case handling 10 procedures, so that when they get to the point where 11 they are really ready to actively work that case, all 12 those different informations and things that they have 13 needed are together for them to do that. So that has 14 helped as well. 15 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other questions? 16 MS. GABATO: One more question. 17 If I file a case with you, NERC, and I was 18 unhappy with the resolution of dismissal of it, what 19 other resource would I have? 20 MS. NIX: One of the things that happens 21 with -- in our process, if the case is dismissed, you 22 can always ask for a review by the EEOC, so there is 23 always the review over the EEOC. 24 Let's say that we go through the entire

is no probable cause finding, the charging party is unhappy with that. From the time that they are advised of the finding on the case, they have 15 days in which to request a review by the Administrator. And, at that point, the Administrator then will take that case and look through it and make sure that everything that has been done has been properly done.

And if, at that time, the Administrator determines that there is still no probable cause finding, then we send a letter to that charging party also at that point advising them that now they can request a substantial-weight review from the EEOC. And then that case is automatically sent to the EEOC for their review so they have an outside entity that has the ability to come in and look at that case in its entirety.

And right now -- we were just talking about that not too long ago about, what is the percentage of cases where the finding of the Nevada Equal Rights Commission is reversed; in other words, when it gets to the EEOC, they say, Oh, no, this was the wrong call on this one? And, at this point, we're not seeing -- what we have been told by our state coordinator is there is no way to extrapolate that information from the system.

But we know at this point that the amount of 1 cases that we get that are, quote, rejected, which are 2 sent back to us for additional work to be done or that 3 we're not receiving credit for those cases because of a 4 misfinding, is under 1 percent. 5 So we are, in that instance, seeing that --6 we believe that, as does the EEOC, that the quality of 7 cases that is coming out of the state of Nevada is 8 improving as well. 9 DAVID SANCHEZ: Thank you. 10 For the record, this State Advisory Committee 11 has been monitoring the activities of the Nevada Equal 12 Rights Commission for at least seven, eight years. 13 have had former administrators, executive directors 14 come before us, so we're pleased to hear some of your 15 progress at this point. 16 Are there any other questions? If not, could 17 we hear from our new to be Administrator. 18 Ms. Madison, would you introduce yourself and 19 tell us about your plans. 20 MS. MADISON: My name is Deborah Madison, and 21 for a few more days, I am going to still be the 22 department's EEO officer. I have been with the 23 department almost eight years, so I have been in the 24 EEO business for quite some time.

I am delighted to be going over and working

1 with such a capable group of professionals. 2 been kind of watching them from afar, if you want to 3 call it that, and I have seen tremendous improvement. 4 I remember the days that they had a backlog over there. 5 And, in fact, I've known several of the previous 6 administrators and directors over there. 7 I think the ABC processing method that EEOC 8 came up with is a good one. We have obviously adopted 9 it and implemented it pretty well, and it seems to be 10 I plan to review that method closely to see 11 if it needs some fine tuning to make sure that it will 12 continue to work efficiently for us given the small 13 staff that we have currently. 14 I look forward to seeing all of you again in 15 the near future, and I had one question. 16 How often does your Advisory Committee meet? 17 DAVID SANCHEZ: We meet as often as 18 necessary. 19 MS. MADISON: Oh, I see. Good answer. 20 DAVID SANCHEZ: For the record, you have 21 heard some of my questions already regarding 22 independence of the Nevada Equal Rights Commission 23 which is a complaint that we've heard over the years. 24 How do you feel about that in terms of you 25 reporting independently to the Governor or continuing

1	your line of reporting right now?
2	MS. MADISON: I think I have a good
3	relationship with the Director. He's a strong believer
4	in allowing the agency heads to run their agencies, so
5	I don't feel that I would get any undue pressure.
6	DAVID SANCHEZ: So if there was a complaint
7	against your Director, who would investigate that?
8	MS. MADISON: I'm sure it would go to EEOC.
9	MS. NIX: We would defer that.
10	MS. MADISON: In fact, any type of complaint
11	against our department would go to EEOC directly. We
12	wouldn't investigate a complaint.
13	DAVID SANCHEZ: You wouldn't investigate your
14	own boss?
15	MS. MADISON: Right.
16	DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other comments or
17	questions?
18	Well, thank you so much, both of you, for 19	showing up from the State, and we appreciate your
20	comments, et cetera.
21	And let's take about a five-minute stretch
22	break before our next panelists.
23	(Short recess)
24	DAVID SANCHEZ: The meeting of the SAC of the
25	United States Commission on Civil Rights is now

1 reconvened. 2 This is our last panel. At this time, we 3 only have one panelist available with us at this point. 4 Would you please introduce yourself and what 5 role you have within your organization. 6 MS. McGINLEY: Sure. Thank you, David. 7 My name is Ann McGinley, and my title is the William S. Boyd Professor of Law at the Boyd School of 8 9 Law at UNLV. 10 As you all know, we've only been around for 11 seven or eight years, but we are really growing. And I 12 teach employment discrimination there, employment law, 13 disability law, and torts. I also do research. 14 primary of research is employment discrimination, and I 15 have done some research about discrimination in Nevada 16 itself. 17 So I actually have, I think, eight areas that 18 I wanted to talk to you about. My overview of those 19 Sexual harassment by customers and eight areas is: 20 perhaps by other employees, but even more so by 21 customers in the casinos. I've done some research on 22 that. 23 Exclusive hiring of women into certain jobs and maybe men into other jobs. But, for instance, cocktail server. I don't see that as -- I mean, the defense would be a BFOQ, a bonified occupational qualification, but it seems odd that you have to have certain body parts in order to serve drinks. I think there is a really good chance that this is illegal.

Dress and appearance codes that intend to be illegal, I think, based on gender, age, and perhaps disability which happen throughout. Those codes apply to many of these jobs in the casinos that are women-only, but they also apply to jobs that are held by both men and women.

And we have a case that was just decided by the Ninth Circuit against Harrahs, Jasperson versus Harrahs. While Ms. Jasperson, who was a bartender, lost her case -- she refused to wear make-up and was fired because she refused to wear make-up. She lost her case, but the court said that she hadn't put in sufficient evidence of the different burdens of the Personal Best make-up -- Personal Best is the name of their program, the dress appearance program, and I'll talk about that later. I just want to get through all the things that I know.

Undocumented workers, there are many undocumented workers in this state and particularly large in Las Vegas. Nationwide, it's probably about 13 percent, but the estimates here go up to 30 or more percent. We have an immigration clinic at the law school that could be very helpful to you. They are working on trying to get those numbers, and I want to talk to you about why undocumented workers can harm other workers who are legal based on their national origin.

Segregation of work places, the African Americans and Latinos tend to be in the back of the house or tend to be in jobs in Clark County, and it's hard to move up from those jobs. If you look at the --- they are segregated. And I suppose Asians as well. I don't have as much information about Asians. I'll be talking a little bit more about Asians in a minute.

The old-boy network is alive and well here.

And I am not sure that this is intentional discrimination, but I do think that there is some type of disparate impact of a handshake, and that's how we promote people. We meet them in church. We meet them in other ways where you have social systems. And a lot of people are not moving up who have the qualities and qualifications to do so.

The next problem I see is enforcement problems. We have a well funded defense Bar in employment discrimination. Some of the members of the Bar, and some of the particular firms whose names I won't mention here, but are particularly aggressive.

We have judges who are overloaded, federal judges.

This is true across the country, and there has been a large rise in employment discrimination cases across the country. And because of that, the federal judges are searching for means of handling these cases more efficiently. And often that means there are summary judgmented (sic) out before a jury. I have done research on that.

We have here a fairly conservative federal bench and relatively few plaintiff's attorneys who can handle the complaints. NERC and the EEOC is not here.

NERC, has been, as you know, overwhelmed in the past.

It sounds as though they are moving along as far as processing cases. And this is just second-hand information that I have from people who practice law in this area. They seem to believe that NERC is dismissing cases that do have probable cause because there is a pressure to move things along.

There is some hope that when the EEOC comes in that that will change. But that's also going to be a pretty small office, so I think -- you know, I'm hoping that that will work a little better.

And then there is Nevada State law. The law itself is good, especially because we have sexual orientation as a protected class, but the enforcement is problematic, and I mentioned with NERC. And now, we have got a Supreme Court case called Woods versus Safeway which states that a sexual assault or a sexual harassment under the Nevada State law is not -- you cannot bring a lawsuit because it's a worker's comp claim.

Now, the case that I am talking about, this particular case, the woman was a mentally retarded girl who was attacked by a janitor in the work place where she was three or four times. She became pregnant, and the court dismissed the case. That's the Nevada Supreme Court.

I will begin with sexual harassment by customers. This particular area is an area that I researched. And I researched -- my research is almost exclusively about the Hard Rock. And the reason I'm working with the Hard Rock Casino is because I had some students who came to me about being sexually harassed. They were dealers at the Hard Rock, and the stories were interesting, and I started to interview dealers at the Hard Rock, women and men, about harassment.

And, of course, as you know, it's too bad the ACLU people aren't here, but there have been lots of ads that are very sexual, and in addition to those ads, that there was -- the Gaming Control Board went against the Hard Rock, brought complaints and charges against the Hard Rock, for those advertisements. Those things ended up being settled.

But whether or not those ads are protected or not by the First Amendment -- and those ads and my research showed it created an environment -- not only the ads, but the promotions -- they have lots of promotions of women running around in lingerie, they have got a Playboy magazine 2001 which shows some of the women working at the Hard Rock in various states of undress. All of that atmosphere has created an environment for the Blackjack dealers that is harassing, and that is not being corrected by the management. At least that's what I have found in my research.

Now, what management says is that -- and this is kind of an interesting area because these are good jobs. And, you know, sometimes I think there is a sense that, well, if you're going to do that job, you have to put up with what's going to happen and you make money in this area.

But what management says to me, and I interviewed the head of personnel there, and she told me that there is always somebody who's willing to deal with these guys who are harassing them. And when I say harassing them, they are calling them language that I would rather not repeat here. One word that begins with B and ends with CH, and another word that begins with C and ends with T. They threaten -- have threatened to rape them on occasion. They get up, they grab them. And you can imagine all the other kinds of things in between.

When these things are reported -- at least this is what the people I have talked to said -- nothing really happens. Now, what management says to me is, Well, there is always somebody who's willing to deal with these people, so we will move -- often we will move the dealer away and bring in a different dealer, or we will move the harasser -- they don't call them harassers -- but the customer away and will bring in a different dealer. But what we're doing really is allowing the women who are being treated this way basically to subsidize the men. You know, in order to get this job, you have to put up with this. In order to keep the job, you have to put up with the sexual harassment.

I won't say any more about that. I have an article on it which is going to be published by University of Illinois Law Review, and if anybody is

1 interested in seeing it, I would share it with you. 2 The next issue is, as I said, the jobs that 3 are reserved for women that are particularly 4 sexualized. I mean, the whole community here makes its money selling sex appeal or sex. And these jobs, like 5 6 the cocktail server jobs, are pretty much exclusively 7 I have talked to people in the casinos who tell me that -- managers in the casinos, Well, we have a 8 9 costume for a man in case he applies for the job, but 10 no men have applied. 11 And I have talked to lawyers who defend them 12 and whether they think -- and many of them are working 13 on trying to come up with a BFOQ defense for having 14 only women in these jobs, and particular types of 15 women, women who look a certain way, younger, more 16 attractive women. 17 DAVID SANCHEZ: May I stop you for a moment. 18 MS. McGINLEY: Yes. 19 DAVID SANCHEZ: Because it just dawns on me 20 that we have one hotel casino that's opened up recently 21 that might be problematic, Hooters. 22 If a male tried to apply for a Hooter's job, 23 would they use a BFOQ defense to say that only women 24 may apply for jobs as dealers and/or casino, you 25 know --

1 MS. McGINLEY: I don't know what the position 2 is that Hooters is taking right now. But I know that 3 the EEOC in the past has brought cases against Hooter's 4 that have ended in settlements. 5 And this is where the issue gets kind of 6 tricky, and I think for this Committee it's tricky. 7 And that is, Hooter's was very smart and put out this 8 advertising. It was a very aggressive ad campaign in 9 response. And what they did was they dressed a man up 10 in a woman's Hooter's costume, and said, Is this really 11 who you want to serve you. And everybody, you know, 12 the public, thought that was very funny. 13 14 15 16

20

21

22

23

And what happened was, I think they ended up settling one of those cases anyway where they were allowed to keep certain women dressed that way, but they also had to hire men in other types of jobs.

Hooter's, you know, I don't know. I haven't been into the casino here yet; but, certainly, I think there are some real issues about whether it's a BFOO. Because the BFOQ law, for those of you who don't know the law, says it has to be essential to the job itself and essential to the business.

And what defense attorneys are saying to me now here is that, Wait a minute, these are entertainers, and that since they're doing performances, it's essential to their job.

And right in this hotel, we have the bevertainers which is an attempt to create a BFOQ defense by defense counsel. And those are the women who — the rumor is that they got rid of a lot of their older cocktail servers and hired these bevertainers who are younger and more well endowed or whatever. And the way they can get away with that is to say that they're entertainers as well as cocktail servers.

The other issue here that I heard about this casino that I find really troubling, but it might not exactly be civil rights, but it could be, is that evidently the cocktail servers or bevertainers, I'm not sure exactly which group this is, are wearing some kind of tracking device so that management knows where they are at all moments. And, you know, since that group is exclusively female, and you could make a good argument that there is disparate impact cause of action there.

And I heard an MPR, there was an MPR show on that, the State of Nevada talking about that, and there were all these management types saying how wonderful it was.

DAVID SANCHEZ: Professor, I just saw, as I came up this morning, a male bevertainer dancing.

MS. McGINLEY: Well, and that's probably the

1 way -- that would be the way that they can get around it.

Now, there is another question, of course. It's not only gender. It's also -- it could be an age issue, it could be a disability issue, about whether persons -- whether they are allowed to say that you have to look a particular way in order to be a bevertainer. Now, it depends on what the job description is.

So, let me tell you, you are in the most interesting place in the whole country because this is the issue in the country. And I am going to Duke to talk at a symposium in the fall, at Duke University Law School, about this very issue. And they are so excited that I'm coming because I'm from the entertainment capital of the world.

So that's a big issue nationwide, and I think it's something that we have to watch or something has to be done. I'm not exactly sure. I know people in this community have really mixed -- well, maybe not even mixed feelings, but I'm not sure they would support a lawsuit in this community because women make a good living this way.

My concern is that women make a good living this way up to age 30 or so or 35 or whenever it is that they start, you know, looking a little thicker around the waste or whatever, and then that changes.

So that could be an age discrimination as well as a gender discrimination issue.

And then, of course, the other issues would be these appearance and dress codes in jobs for both women and men. Harrahs has this program called Personal Best which was the subject of a litigation I mentioned before, Jasperson versus Harrahs. And although the court did not -- the court decided that case against Darlene Jasperson, who had been a bartender for about 20 years and then they decided she couldn't be one anymore if she didn't put lipstick on.

And what -- and they found this case against her, but, boy, there is a lot of room there for a lawsuit because what they basically say is -- see, she didn't have a lawyer at first and hadn't been able to gather the evidence she needed put in the record which was to show differential burden on the men and the women of that Personal Best dress code and appearance policy.

So that wasn't really in the record, and what she was arguing on appeal was that the judges should take judicial notice of the fact that, you know, there is a big difference if you have to wear make-up versus he doesn't have to wear make-up. But what the court did was, they looked at the whole Personal Best program and said, Well, men have to keep their hair short and women don't, and women have to wear make-up and men are allowed to, so we can't really come to the conclusion that there is really a heavier burden on the women; therefore, we're not going to hold this illegal. But they said, if that were proved, that then it would probably be illegal. So I think there is a possible, good chance that that is going to come around again.

There are a number of casinos in the past, and I know one of them is the Imperial Palace, but that was just taken over by Harrahs, so I think this is changing. But they have contracts with their women cocktail servers, at least up until very recently, that they will be weighed once a month, and if they gain more than six pounds, they are laid off.

And I heard that Harrahs has discontinued that policy. As you might know, they were involved in litigation by women who were pregnant who were moved into the back of the room or something like that, back of the building. That was about seven or eight years ago. It was right when I first came to town.

So I am not sure exactly what's happening at the Imperial Palace. But we also know that Harrahs has replaced the Imperial Palace with its Personal Best program which is questionable as to whether it's going to hold up with the courts.

Let's see. Now, one thing that is happening, of course, is there is this fierce competition among the casinos which is to increasingly, ever increase the sexualization in the work place. And I think that's one of the reasons why we have these requirements that only women of certain ages or certain looks, and sometimes men too. What they are argue is it's lookism. It's appearance discrimination. It's not discrimination against women. But certainly when you add make-up, age, women, and certain weird-looking little costumes, you are going to get some discrimination there, I think, unless you can find or unless you can prove a defense.

I want to get back to the sexual harassment at the Hard Rock because one of the things that I heard there had to do with the Asian women there and that they were harassed even more in a way that was directed at their being Asian. Comments made to them about Asian women are — the idea was generally that they were — Asian women were hostile to the Blackjack players, and that they were trying to make them lose and that kind of thing, and it was directed at the Asian women.

They have many Asian women as Blackjack dealers over there right now, so I think that -- and, actually, the woman who was my student who actually is the only person I spoke to who is willing to go on record about it using her name is an Asian woman and found it was not only gender but also harassment based on her being Asian.

The undocumented worker's issues, of course, we have many in this city. They are in the lawn care, in the home care, in the housing and construction industries. Most of the workers, I think, on the Strip are documented and legal. That's not clear, but people I talk to seem to think that's right.

The other thing they say is that there are — have been as a result of a case called Hoffman Plastics which was decided a couple of years ago by the Supreme Court which said that if you are an illegal or undocumented worker, you cannot collect back pay in a case that's based on a labor violation if you are discriminated against because of your supporting the Union, but you can't collect back pay if they find that you are undocumented.

So that case has caused -- has given employers a certain amount of power to threaten undocumented workers or workers that they think might be undocumented, basically, persons of Latino heritage, a significant amount of power to threaten them that they are going to report them if they engage in any Union activity.

The interesting thing is, of course, undocumented workers are not protected except for being undocumented, but they are protected from discrimination based on national origin. And people who are documented, have -- you know, are often -- they are segregated in work places where there are mostly Latinos working. If a third of the work place is undocumented and the rest is documented, they are going to have trouble if they want to organize a union because the undocumenteds are so afraid. So that creates a disparate impact on persons of a Latino -- different national origins within the Latino community. So that's a problem.

We have a really good immigration clinic, and I can give you the names of people there who have had talks with people. Union leaders call them on a regular basis to make complaints of this type, so I think that might be something you might want to talk to me about later.

The race discrimination issues, it's

1 old-boy's network. According to the plaintiff's 2 attorneys in town, it's about 20 -- we're about 3 20 years behind Chicago, and that's really scary. 4 Clark County also is -- they point 5 Clark County out as a source of great discrimination. 6 And what they say is that African Americans in 7 particular, but other minority members and minority 8 groups, are segregated into jobs that are the 9 lower-level jobs, and the white people are in the 10 higher-level jobs, and the chance to move up is very, 11 very minimal. 12 Of course, one of the -- I know of two cases that are -- one is a race case, and now one is a sex 13 14 discrimination case against Clark County. 15 One is against the airport that Cathy England 16 was bringing. The plaintiff's name was Michael Jordan, 17 and he actually won his case. He won the retaliation 18 part of the case. The juries throughout said he was 19 not discriminated against because of his race and 20 promotion, failure to promote. But they did also 21 conclude that he was retaliated against for bringing a 22 number of charges. 23 And yet, this raises the enforcement problem 24 that I was talking about earlier and that I want to talk about in a minute. And that is, that 25

Cathy England, who is one of our premier and probably the best plaintiff's attorneys in town, spent probably eight to ten years on that, maybe close to $1 million of her own in bringing that case. It's hard to imagine, you know, if you count her fees and everything. And it ended up being awarded -- oh, I don't know -- less than $200,000 in fees. So she, you know, for ten years of work, something that she spent --

And I guess this brings in the aggressive defense as well. I know that Cathy England had to file at least somewhere between 10 to 15 motions to compel on that in that case. And what that means is when you ask for discovery of the defense, they are supposed to give you information that's relevant to the case. And they fought it tooth and nail, and that really pushes up your fees.

And, basically, what's happening is these very aggressive defense counsel are, you know, they might not be winning the case, but, boy, they are minimizing their damages and making it very difficult on plaintiffs to bring these cases.

There is another case against Clark County that's similar that's right now -- it's been in litigation about 15 years, another one that

Cathy England has, where the plaintiff is a woman who's a Captain, one of the first two Captains in the Clark County Fire Department. And she was promoted, but she was harassed terribly. There were a lot of pornographic materials; but more than that, pornographic movies; but much more than that, feces put in her bed, fish guts put in her shoes, and there is no defense to this. I mean, the defense has not — as far as I know, there is nothing in the record to say, No, that it didn't happen.

And then when she became Captain, she was told even though -- you know, they sleep in the Captain's quarters -- that she wasn't allowed to sleep there because there was a guy Captain who was there, so she was told she had to go sleep with the rest of the guys. And she didn't agree to that. She didn't put up with that because it undermined her authority.

And then they decided they were going to send her to a smaller fire department station because then there would only be one Captain. But the problem with that is that you don't -- the smaller stations don't get the really good experience for moving up because they don't cover the Strip.

So those are the kinds of things that are happening. And instead of fixing these things, I mean, in 1998, they promised that by 1999, they would have the whole place rebuilt so there would be proper rest quarters for the women and proper sleeping quarters, and they still haven't finished with that or done that. So those are the kinds of things that are happening here.

I think there is some other good sources of information for you that I can talk to you about. I think some of the Union leaders might have some information about discrimination that would be helpful, and we have some names for you for that.

And also there is some historical information that might be useful. UNLV has a special collections, and there is a woman working on a Ph.D. at either UVA or somewhere at William and Mary. But she is here in charge of the selection collections, and she knows a lot about oral history in the African American community and it might be useful.

Okay. So back to the enforcement problems.

As I mentioned, and I just want to close here that it's an uphill battle. My heart goes out to these people who are fighting for people's rights, and, yet, I think it must be discouraging after a while. They do win these cases, but it takes a long time, and it's very difficult.

Are there any questions?

DAVID SANCHEZ: Any questions?

By the way, for the record, just one item. I worked with Cathy England when I was personnel director for the City of Las Vegas, and I know her quite well and what she is capable of.

Questions?

MS. MOORE: I noticed that a lot of your information, your research, is related to the casinos and the hotel operators, and I understand that's one of our primary industries. But have you done work outside those industries to see if the same type of issues are happening in our general population, because as everything, we're always so focused on the world of casinos and the hotels, and there is another world out there.

MS. McGINLEY: Yes. Now, the research that I have done, the interviews that I have done of individuals has been in the casino industry. What I know about the other -- about the County and about some of the other places is from talking to people in our immigration clinic, talking to some plaintiff's attorneys, talking to some defense attorneys. But it's not my own research of talking to the employees themselves.

1 MS. MOORE: I think what I'm addressing is, 2 we are a community that is nationally ranked repeatedly 3 for small businesses. And I don't mean just one and two people in them, but smaller businesses that are 4 5 not -- do you find any of those issues there, or are 6 they just more prevalent when you get into the 7 corporate -- the larger corporations? 8 MS. McGINLEY: I really wouldn't be able to 9 I haven't been here long enough to do research on say. 10 the individual small businesses. I don't know for 11 sure. 12 I do know that country wide, larger 13 businesses are usually considered to be better on issues of civil rights and discrimination issues 14 15 because they have policies often in place that they 16 enforce. But I don't know about the small businesses. 17 That is a fruitful area of research. I just haven't 18 gotten to it yet. 19 MS. MOORE: And what about construction? 20 This is another area that we have a lot of workers in 21 our community and one that there has not always been 22 parity for, particularly gender parity. What about 23 construction? 24 I haven't done any research on MS. McGINLEY: 25 the construction industry itself, but what I do know about the construction industry is that there are --1 housing construction anyway -- that there is this large 2 group of undocumented workers. And one of the things 3 that, interestingly enough, that I have heard is that 4 you can clear out a work site by telling them that INS 5 6 is on the way. And, often, it's not only undocumenteds that 7 It's people who are documented because INS 8 9 tends to, you know, they give them a hard time. 10 just don't want to be around. 11 So there are people who are being 12 discriminated against, based on their national origin 13 Maybe not by their employers. You know, this 14 is a little difficult. This is a little tricky, but I 15 think there might be some possible disparate impact causes of action. 16 17 As far as gender discrimination, I only know 18 what I hear from the plaintiff's Bar is that there is 19 some gender discrimination, but I don't have much 20 specifics for you. 21 DAVID SANCHEZ: Questions? 22 I have a -- I don't know if this MS. GABATO: 23 will be, you know, something that you deal with. 24 Because I'm President of the Philippine Nurse's 25 Association here in Nevada, we have, of course, we have our dialects from our culture, and some facilities -perhaps not some, but perhaps all, but I am not sure -have had employer regulations that says you can speak your native language while at work except on breaks and lunch. But some of these are interpreted broadly, some others are interpreted very strictly, and when it's strictly enforced, it is -- our nurses (inaudible) perhaps suspended.

Now, I know that it has to be applied across the board, but what we have noticed in the work place is that it's only applied across the board to us. You know, like others are speaking Spanish, others are speaking Pakistani, or, you know, within the hospital facility, but it seems like it's directed to us.

Would you please comment on that.

MS. McGINLEY: Yes. I will tell you that there is a Ninth Circuit case that says you are allowed to discriminate based on language. In other words, you are -- not discriminate based on language -- you are allowed to require the people speak English in the work place.

But certainly can't just take one group and say, You can you speak English -- you must speak English, but everybody else can do what they want. If you're treating people differently, that's going to be,

1 obviously, illegal. 2 I also think that Ninth Circuit opinion, 3 which is a little bit old, I think that law could fall 4 in the near future that -- and, you know, if it's 5 necessary to the employer's business that you speak 6 English to customers or something, of course. But, you 7 know, if you're saying that you can only speak -- you 8 may not speak your native language at work when you're 9 just standing next to someone, and, you know, working 10 with someone, it seems crazy. 11 I don't have -- I mean, you have the 12 empirical evidence that this is happening. I don't 13 have that. But I can tell you that I think if they are 14 treating different groups differently, that's 15 definitely illegal. 16 MS. GABATO: Because we have an issue of, 17 what if the patient was Chinese or a patient was 18 Filipino or whatever, and then I speak that same 19 dialect, but then I have this regulation behind me, you 20 can't speak your dialect, you know, while you're at 21 work, but your patient is -- speaks your dialect. 22 So I have always asked this question of my 23 members, so I don't know how to deal with it because 24 I'm not --

Well, if you were to be

MS. McGINLEY:

conservative, you could say, Well, there still is a case out there that says they can make that rule. But it seems to me that in that situation, it would be malpractice not to permit them to speak Tagalog to the person, the patient. So that would be a good case. That would be a case that I think -- yeah. I think that's a good case.

MS. GABATO: Yeah, it's just very confusing for us because there is certain words in our dialect that we cannot translate into English. And so it's just like automatic. We'll say this word, but then you say, Oh, I'm not supposed to say that because I'm supposed to speak English. So it's very confusing for us.

MS. McGINLEY: Yeah. The problem that I see, the practical problem, is an enforcement one. What I mean by that is, in order for that case to be overturned, you need to get to the Ninth Circuit which is very expensive because you have to go to the federal courts first and lose because they would probably apply the Ninth Circuit laws. And then you would have to get to the Ninth Circuit. But if someone is willing to do that, that's the kind of case I would like to see the EEOC bring.

MS. GABATO: Thank you.

1 DAVID SANCHEZ: Other questions? 2 Well, thank you so much, Professor, for 3 coming in front of us. We appreciate your comments. 4 And, again, we're going to use your information again to establish what the status of civil rights is here in 5 6 Nevada. Thank you so much. 7 MS. McGINLEY: Thank you. 8 DAVID SANCHEZ: One last comment before we 9 close and convene. I have a closing statement, but I 10 certainly would like to know and get some comments from 11 any of our Committee members before we leave. 12 comments on what we have heard today? 13 Comments from the members before we close? 14 I certainly enjoyed this MS. GABATO: 15 session. It was very informative, and, finally, we 16 meet like face-to-face. And I know we have had the 17 conferences and it's hard to put a face to the voice. 18 Now, we do, and this really -- I'm really happy that we 19 did this thing although I would have preferred that 20 there would be more public comment. You know, the 21 public being here and commenting on these kinds of 22 issues. 23 Of course, I appreciate the fact that a lot 24 of informed, really informed people came before us 25 today. Thank you.

Mr. Chair, thank you so much 1 MR. PENNINGTON: 2 for the opportunity. I have been informed by staff 3 that since there's a 30-day opportunity to keep the 4 dialogue and the conversation and the testimony moving 5 forward, that Committee members or the general public can offer further testimony or ask any further 7 questions and also send information to staff where they 8 can follow up with people who presented here today or 9 find some information for looking for it. 10 definitely appreciate that opportunity as well as for 11 the next 30 days. 12 DAVID SANCHEZ: Any other comments? 13 MS. KINDRED: Mr. Chairman, I would just like 14 to say I think this was a beneficial meeting. I would 15 like us to, if possible, to be able to have an 16 additional gathering of this nature at some point 17 fairly soon and include some of those groups that we 18 were not able to have represented before us, the 19 unions, for example. I think that would help us as 20 well. 21 DAVID SANCHEZ: All right. Thank you. 22 Anything further? 23 By the way, I would also like to thank 24 Ms. Hernadez and Mr. Pilla back here from the Western 25 Regional Office in Los Angeles for setting this up.
